ALLEGED HE BOASTED DRIVING RED WAGON

Charge of Homicide Is Filed Against Accused Slayer On Information Furnished By Two Americans Recently Returned From Russia.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—Detectives tonight arrested a suspect in connection with the Wall Street explosion which caused the death of more than a score of persons.

The man under arrest gave his name of Noah Lerner.

Lerner was arrested on information obtained by detectives from persons who told of the alleged boast of Lerner that he "had driven the wagon that carried the bomb in the Wall Street explosion."

A charge of homicide was filed against him. According to police Lerner made the boast to Mr and Mrs. Thomas Boyle of Baton Rouge, La., while they were in Kuabas, Russia, as members of a soviet colony.

Disappointed in their experience in Russia, Boyle and his wife returned recently to America.

They informed the district attorney's office of Lerner's alleged boasts. Four days ago Lerner returned to America from Russia on the Homeric. He was arrested today.

Although he denied the charge and denied having told the Boyles he was the driver of the "little red wagon" he was formally charged with the murder of Caroline Dickermon and thirty-seven other victims of the explosion.

Police said tonight they felt confident this latest arrest "put them near a solution of the case."

Lerner is 23 years old.

EVANSTON MAN KILLED DURING A CLASS FIGHT

Roommate of Dead Northwestern Student Admits to State's Attorney That He Knows All Details Surrounding Death of His Friend.

CHARGES WAS PLEDGED TO SECRECY BY SCOTT

Authorities Say Young Man Also Confesses Supposed Accidental Killing of Louis Aubere In Auto Crash Really Hazing Episode.

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, May 12.—Roscoe Conklin Fitch, former Northwestern university student and room-mate of Leighton Mount, confessed tonight in tears that he knew the circumstances of Mount's killing, it was announced by the state's attorney's office. Fitch simultaneously revealed that the supposed accidental death of a few days ago of Louis Aubere was in fact a killing in a hazing episode, it was announced.

Fitch said he knew all of the details surrounding the killing of Mount which occurred during the class fight of September 21 and 22, 1921, accrding to the announcement. He did not, however, confess to having had any actual part in the killing.

Was Case of Hazing.

The automobile crash in which Aubere was killed was generally supposed to have been an accident, but according to Fitch's alleged confession, it grew out of hazing.

The prisoner, the authorities said, declared between gulps that he not only had been made by means of fraternity pledges to keep secrecy concerning what he knew, but had been pledged again on that score by university officials.

He is not the only student who is under pledge to Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university, authorities quoted Fitch as saying. All students so pledged, according to the confession attributed to Fitch, were directed to follow the example set by Dr. Scott when asked what they knew of Mount's death or hazing at the college.

Fitch broke down and wept in convulsions after four hours of merciless questioning by attaches of the states attorneys staff, these officials said. He begged that what he had said be kept secret, they said, moaning that he already had spoken too much.

The investigators who questioned him said that they would immediately ask suburban police to bring in Lawrence Horton, a student who occupied the car immediately ahead of that in which Aubere was riding when he was killed.

States Attorney Robert E. Crowe tonight charged that a "powerful influence" is seeking to block the investigation.

Just before 10 o'clock tonight, Fitch retracted his story concerning Mount, his questioners revealed. When asked more about Mount, the witness said he had not meant to say he knew about that student's death, but was referring to the death of Aubere. Thereafter, the state's attorney's office said, the witness confused the one death with the other.

SOUDER FACES NEW CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Former Treasurer of Lincoln County Is Taken Into Custody Saturday and Bond Is Fixed at Large Amount.

TWENTY-EIGHT COUNTS IN TWO COMPLAINTS

Bonding Companies Being Notified of Big Shortage and Expected to Reimburse County For Loss Sustained.

(Special to The Star.)

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., May 12.—Two complaints were filed today against former County Treasurer S. M. Souder, charging him in twenty-eight counts, with embezzlement of $14,031.19 of money belonging to Lincoln county and drainage district No. 1.

The complaints were filed after conferences between Deputy Fire Marshal L. J. Butcher, Sheriff L. L. Berthe, County Attorney Wells C. Jones and assistants William E. Shuman and George N. Gibbs, who are investigating Lincoln county's affairs.

Evidence said to substantiate the charges was obtained among papers found in the burned remains of the old court house, in bank records and various other sources.

It is said the shortage in the county treasurer's office will mount up into large figures, probably seven or eight times the amount involved in the complaints filed today; enough in fact to meet and pay off all of the past due indebtedness of Lincoln county. The audit is by no means complete but first outlines indicate that the shortage will count up in six figures.

Had the court house contents been entirely destroyed by fire, there would have been no chance to make computations.

Enough books and papers were saved from the fire to make up a new set of books for the county. Blank books have been ordered and when received a force will be put to work making new books, but this will involve considerable expense to the county.

Notices are being prepared by the county attorney and his assistants, advising the bonding companies of the alleged shortage being found.

Fortunately for the county, there are good responsible bonding companies.

Souder was arrested today and bond fixed at $25,000.

About People

The Lincoln League of Women Voters were guests of Mrs. C. W. Bryan at the governor's mansion Saturday afternoon. There was a program consisting of a discussion of the three plans for international cooperation to prevent war. Miss Adeline Reynoldson of the University of Nebraska discussed President Harding's proposal for entry into the world court and Senator Borahs resolution for outlawing war. Miss Laura Pfeiffer, also of the University of Nebraska, discused the league of nations and made a plea for a thorough and intelligent study of that plan, urging the women to join the non-partisan association to further interest in the league of nations. Miss Mae Gund, chairman of the state committee of the Nebraska league of women voters on international cooperation to prevent war, asked individual members to organize round tables made up of from ten to twenty women to discuss international cooperation to prevent war. The Lincoln league will foster a number of such meetings during the summer. Mrs. W. E. Barkley urged the league to use the plan employed two years ago, when outdoor meetings were held.

The next meeting will be a round table discusion of the three plans for international cooperation to prevent war. A state board meeting of the Nebraska League of Women oVters will be held in Omaha May 25 and 26 at which time a statewide plan for round table discussions will be formulated. Mrs. Barkley and Mrs. E. E. Taylor presided at the tea table. Mrs. Bryan met the members. There was an unusually large attendance. Mrs. Maurice Deutsch had charge of the arrangements, assisted by daughters of the members.

Ceres club will have an old fashioned picnic at Antelope park Saturday afternoon, May 19th. Families will do their own grouping and will bring all their own food and drinks. Supper at 6 o'clock.

The members of the Manchester club will entertain their husbands at a 6 o'clock dinneer and card party Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Jess Hollenbeck, 703 South Thirty-fourth street.

Appomattox W. R. C. kensington was entertained at the home of Mrs. Hattie Warren, 2300 N street Friday afternoon. The assisting hostesses were: Mrs. J. H. McClay and Mrs. Maude Hyers.

A brief history of Andersonville prison was given as to "What it was at the close of the war, and how it is being cared for today." Comrade Rheuben Hyers gave a very interesting talk, verifying the statements given of the terrible sufferings endured by the Civil war veterans rather than surrender in dishonor.

A vocal solo was given by Mrs. Hattie Austin. While the refreshments were being served an instrumental medley of national airs was given by Mrs. Margaret Williams.

At the close of the meeting all repeated the salute to the flag, little Mary Lapp holding a flag.

The next kensington will be held with Mrs. Whitemeyer, 328 North Eleventh street, Friday, May 25 at 2:30 p. m.

The main part of the program was carried out in the line of toasts given by the three invited guests. The idea was a ship at sea. "The Recruiting Agent," Miss Mary Cogil, spoke of a nurse as she was entering training. "The Voyage," the third year in training was given by Miss Lula Abbott. "The Crew," being the doctors and sisters, and "The Passengers," the student nurses. Why you should HEAT WITH —OIL—

The heating value of 100 gallons of FUEL OIL is approximately equal to one ton of average soft coal.

One hundred gallons of FUEL OIL takes up only one-third as much space as one ton of coal.

The average cost of 100 gallons of FUEL OIL is much less than the average cost of one ton of soft coal.

FUEL Oil is clean—Coal is dirty Burning FUEL OIL saves all the time and labor spent in shoveling coal and ashes.

It saves at least one-third of the redecorating bills.

It saves more than half the cleaning and dusting.

It saves practically all the space that would be used for storing coal and kindling.

WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING

Does away with dirty coal, with all the dust, smoke, soot ashes and odors.
It completely eliminates the hardest and most disagreeable of all household duties—the care and operation of the heating plant. It furnishes better, cleaner, more even heat than you ever dreamed possible.
Don't order coal—write or phone today for facts about OIL-O-MATIC BURNER.
NOTE—OIL-O-MATIC burns cheap fuel oil with maximum efficiency and should not be confused with kerosene or distillate burners. However, it will burn kerosene or distillate without change or adjustment, but fuel oil is best because it is cheaper, more plentiful and absoltely safe, and contains more heat units.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease, made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womankind. After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription has entirely eradicated their distressing ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's, called An-uric (for kidneys and backache), has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefits received—that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. of any of his remedies, or write for free medical advice.—Advertisement.

SIX NEW NURSES GIVEN DIPLOMAS

St. Elizabeth's Hospital Holds Graduation Exercises Saturday Afternoon.

Occasion Was Part of National Hospital Day—Chancellor Avery Speaks.

Graduation exercises were held at the nurses' training school at St. Elizabeth's hospital Saturday afternoon as a part of national hospital day and diplomas were presented to six graduate nurses by Dr. F. B. Hollenbeck, president of the training staff. About 200 persons attended the exercises held in the basement of the hospital. Miss Julia Mary Vetter was class valedictorian.

The graduates were Frances M. Schneider, Mary Genevieve Goehring, Carmina Wells Mahaney, Julia Mary Vetter, Lillian M. Rogers and Thelma Elizabeth Fitzpatrick.

The graduating address was given by Chancellor Samuel Avery of the University of Nebraska. He gave a brief summary of the work done by Florence Nightengalq, who was responsible for the establishment of the first nurses' training school in England over half century ago. He gave an account of her strong religious character and her activity in putting the idea of nursing across, in the form of a training school. Her work along hospital lines has shown how much can be accomplished by women in this activity, he said.

Chancellor Avery stated that it is the graduate nurses who are well fitted to spread the idea of good hospital work. These women should be women with a strong influence in their community as well as good nurses, he asserted.

"The occasion of the graduation exercises is the sixty-third anniversary of Florence Nightengale who established the first nurses training school in the world," said Dr. J. Stanley Welch who presided. Dr. Welch stated that such an occasion marks the progress of a high type of mankind in general. All hospitals were open to the public for inspection on Saturday.

The exercises of the day began at 10 a. m., with solemn high mass. The very Rev. Frank Casimir, acted as celebrant. Rev. D. B. O'Connor officiated as deacon of the mass and Rev. Michael Grogan as sub-deacon of the mass. Rev. W. T. McKenna was master of ceremonies.

The following was presented Saturday afternoon:

"Over the Hills at Break of Day," by the school sextette.

Valedictory, by Julia Mary Vetter.

Presentation of the class, by Dr. J. S. Welch.

Conferring of diplomas, by Dr. F. B. Hollenbeck.

Vocal selection—"My Wild Irish Rose," by school sextette.

Graduation address by Chancellor Samuel Avery.

A banquet was held at 6:30 p. m., at the hospital for the graduating class and the alumni.

PARDON BOARD DENIES BARGE PRISON PAROLE

The parole applications of Earl Henry and Burl Baker, two convicts who escaped from the penitentiary a year ago and were recaptured within twenty miles of it, are also turned down. They were resentenced for one to ten years each, runing concurrently with the unexpired portions of their previous terms. Baker came to the prison originally in 1920 for grand larceny in Rall county, and Henry in the same year for automobile theft in Lancaster.

Biggs Case Undecided.

The board deferred its findings on the request of Manford Biggs, Omaha embezzler, for a parole. He is under sentence of two years, commuted by the old board from a maximum of fifteen, and is still in the Douglas county jail, there being no room for him at the penitentiary. One of the points in Bigg's favor is that he helped the jail authorities at Omaha to prevent the escape of other prisoners who were planning an outbreak.

Mexicans to Be Deported.

Juan Corral and Felipe Lopez, two Mexicans, are released to the federal government for deportation. Corral, who was convicted of second degree murder in Morrill county and sentenced for seventeen years, was transferred some time ago to the Lincoln state insane hospital for treatment. Lopez came to the penitentiary over two years ago, from Douglas county, under sentence of two to fifteen years for attempted rape.

Penitentiary Cases.

Douglas county—Paroles granted: Roy D. Woodward, forgery, 1-3; Mike Trakomovitch, stab to wound, 1-5; Harry Miller, forgery, 1-20; Earl Kline, grand larceny, 1-10. Paroled for deportation: Felipe Lopez, assault to rape, 2-15. Action deferred: James Wilson auto stealing, 1-7; Joe L. McCollester, grand larceny, 1-7; Ray Beecher, breaking and entering, 1-10; Manford Briggs, embezzlement, 2 years.

Lancaster—Parole granted: Elmer Westgate, auto stealing, 1-10. Paroles denied: Floyd H. Brott, grand larceny, 1-7; Earl Henry, auto stealing, 1-10; Mattias Limbeck, forgery, 1-20.

Hall—Parole granted to William Taylor, forgery, 1-20. Parole denied Burl Baker, grand larceny, 1-7.

Wayne—Parole denied Herbert H. Barge, embezzlement, 1-10.

Morrill—Commutation granted to Juan Corral (insane), murder, 17 years, for deportation to Mexico.

Dodge—Parole denied Leslie McLaughlin, larceny, 1-3.

Butler—Parole denied Martin Rainey, burglary, 1-5.

Jefferson—Commutation denied to James G. Byers, grand larceny, 1-7.

Richardson—Parole granted Jake Miller, larceny, 1-7.

Men's Reformatory.

Douglas—Paroles denied: Frank Randall, auto stealing, 1-7; Carl Walters, receiving stolen property, 1-7.

Dawson—Clair S. Anderson, parole granted, auto stealing, 1-7.

Cherry—Action deferred in case of Ray Brown, horse stealing, 1-10.

Lancaster—Parole granted Daniel Ernst, auto stealing, 1-5.

Woman's Reformatory.

Mother's Day for All Mothers

Your "reaction" to the words "Mother's Day" (if we may use modern psychological patter) consists of a vision of a sweet-faced, somewhat bent, white-haired woman we love too well to call "old." And it is quite right that we should have this vision and let it spur us on to use the telegraph, the telephone, the special delivery—possibly radio—to tell her how happy we are that she is gladdening the world by her presence.

But Mothers are not all whitehaired and bent and feeble, and we protest against limiting Mother's Day to Mothers who are—or ought to be—Grand-Mothers also. The young Mothers with one or two or three babies, say, under seven years old, need our loving consideration fully as much as those who have done their share and ceased from child-bearing or child-rearing.

That young wife of yours, the Mother of your children: What have you done for her happiness and peace of mind on Mother's Day? In reality there are and ought to be 365 Mother's Days in every year. Well, what have you done? Have you bought a home? Have you insured your life? Are you saving any money? Have you made your Will?

These are not all the important things of life, but they play a very vital part. Your attention is called to our Prudential Monthly payment plan as an aid to owning your own home. Our Eltelic contract enables you to meet your Life Insurance premiums in equal monthly payments. Our Modern Investment contract enables you to save and invest at the same time—to buy good securities on monthly payments.

But our message today is chiefly in regard to the importance of making your Will and providing for the safety of your children and their mother in the event you are called early to make the long journey. A Mother's Day naturally calls for presents of flowers and sweets and jewels; but it is incomplete if she and her children are not safeguarded to the full extent of your ability so to do.

May we send you our booklet, "Safeguarding Your Family's Future"? A postal card request is suffient and you create no obligations by the asking. It's free. By following the recommendations made in it, you can help to make every day a Mother's Day.

JEWETT SIX
PAIGE BUILT

$1065
f. o. b. factory

Cradled on 180 Inches of Special-Alloy Springs

NINETY inches—7½ feet—of springs on each side the Jewett Six! Spring length equal to eighty per cent of its wheelbase. See how many cars of comparable size you can find as liberally sprung as Jewett! Every spring is built to finest Paige standards of special steels.

Leaves are wide and flat, stoutly shackled, and have well-oiled bushings. They absorb the shock and jolt of roughest roads in a way that makes folks wonder at Jewett's big-car riding comfort. The rear springs are semi-elliptic—slung under the axle to give both car and occupants a low, easy, cradling motion. Jewett spring suspension, in a word, is what you'd expect Paige to build! And Jewett Six is a better car than you expect $1065 to buy.

Firpo and Willard Victorious In Main Events of Gotham Fights

ARGENTINE GIANT LOOMS AS CHIEF RIVAL OF DEMPSEY

Firpo Floors Detroit Husky In Three Slashing Rounds; Climbs to High Niche In Hall of Fistic Fame; Tex Rickard High In Praise.

HIS TRIUMPH FEATURE OF STADIUM CARNIVAL

Willard's Victory Crushing. But Lacks Impressiveness of Firpo's Knockout of McAuliffe; Fred Fulton Loses On Foul.

SATURDAY'S FIGHT RESULTS.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Result of fights:

Jess Willard knockd out Floyd Johnson in eleventh round.

Louis Firpo knocked out Jack McAuliffe, II, third round.

Jack Renault won from Fred Fulton, foul, fourth round.

Tiny Jim Herman knocked out Al Reich, sixth round.

Harry Drake won decision over Joe McCann, end fourth round.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—Out of a pile of a ton and a half of fighting flesh on the hoof, the caveman bulk of Luis Firpo, South American giant, arose this afternoon in the Yankee stadium as the "hope" that is ready to meet Jack Dempsey in a heavyweight championship fight.

Boxing history's greatest heavyweight carnival, staged here today for the milk fund, included everything from the trial horses to the logical contenders, as well as a former heavyweight champion.

There was Harry Drake, an English sparring partner, who won a four-round decision from a vicious looking American, Je McCann; there was Tiny Herman, from far Omaha, who knocked out Al Reich, the world's greatest gym fighter and the most beautiful diver in the ring, in the sixth round; there was the timid Fred Fulton, who gave Jack Renault, former corporal of the northwest mounted police, a victory on a foul in the fourth ruund — and there was Jess Willard in the title role of "age beating youth," who faced the gamest youngster ver seen in a ring, Floyd Johnson, to surrender after the eleventh round.

Firpo Coming Champion.

But above all there was the hairy-chested Firpo, with fists like pumpkins hanging on arms like fence posts, who beat down to the resin dusted and blood-spattered canvas, the 1923 version of the form perfect Corbett—Jack McAuliffe of Detroit.

Tex Rickard, the greatest of the world's promoters, walked around the pit where the writers were batting with copy after the carnival and remarked:

"Boys, if I know a fighter, that Firpo is the next world's heavyweight champion. Mark that down, and let time give the decision."

Sitxy thousand spectators who packed the world's greatest baseball stadium had to be content with some very mediocre boxing until Firpo and the green-tighted, smiling McAuliffe entered the ring.

After that came Jess Willard, 40, former world's champion, against Floyd Johnson, who spotted Jess 53 pounds and nine years' experience.

Real Rival for Dempsey.

It was the snarling, primitive Firpo with a rage that made him snort like a wild bull from the Pampas, who brought that carnival to its feet—a rival for Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion.

Everything but the star bouts can be dismissed without comment. Fights between Drake and McCann, and Reich and Herman were arranged merely to entertain the crowd while late arrivals were hunting for the big boys. The Fulton-Renault was a semi-fight to add class to the obut, but failed to make good when Fulton chose to run out on a foul in the fourth. Fultn hit Renault low.

Young Jack McAuliffe, whose manager sold his contract last year, was picked by Jim Corbett as the netx heavyweight champion. That, perhaps, was the jinx McAuliffe carried, because Corbett never has picked a winner.

McAuliffe's Big Mistake.

McAuliffe made the fatal mistake of trying to box with Firpo. But there was nothing else for him to do. He used a left to the face to beat the giant from Argentina, and it only succeeded in making the caveman mad. The Detroit youngster, with a body like old Bob Fitzsimmons, and a flashy boxing form like Corbett, danced around the hairy-chested giant until Firpo caught him with a wild right swing late in the second round and the gong saved him.

Two right uppercuts sent in with the force of a falling freight elevator, dropped McAuliffe to the floor early in the third round and elevated Firpo to the position of the logical man to meet Dempsey.

Nothing but psychic wires kept the game young Floyd Johnson going for eleven rounds against Willard. The right uppercut with which Willard almost flopped Jack Dempsey in the second round of that ancient battle back in 1919, landed on Johnson in the second and he was through then.

Figured Jess Would Tire.

With the gameness of an old Roman gladiator who had to win or perish under the sword, Johnson fought back and back and back. He fought on the theory that Willard was an old man ond would fade under a withering pace that would exhaust all his faltering strength.

Johnson made that theory sound for eight rounds. He was out on his feet, but he battled like a maniac. His eyes were glassy, he had to be directed to his corner; his legs wavered, but he kept going.

In the ninth, he went down but the merciful bell clanged amid the wild shouts of the crowd, and he was taken to his corner after 't'hree' had been counted ocer him.

The eleventh round was his Waterloo. When the gong sounded, after he had taken everything that one of the strongest men in the ring had given him, he was flat on his face and out. His seconds rushed frantically out of the corner and picked him up. He rallied instantly and tried to use his legs, but fell across the ropes, like a sheet on a clothesline.

Second Gives It Up.

His chief second then called Referee Jack Appel and told him that Johnson could not continue.

Johnson did not quit—he didn't take the easy way out. Like General Lee, he surrendered, and he won glory in surrendering in the face of opposition against which he had wasted everything he had in heart and muscle trying to win.

Willard's victory may be construed as a fine come-back against that old adge about 'age vs. youth."

The former champion did prove that he could "come-back" but he did not show that he has a chance to win the title from Dempsey.

Since this carnival was arranged to get some line on the heavyweight who has a chance to beat Dempsey, it can be only concluded that:

Willard would not last three rounds against Dempsey, and,

Firpo would give Dempsey the worst fight he ever had.

Possesses Powerful Punch.

Firpo proved that he cannot be beaten by a clever man who can box with him and make him miss; he proved that he has gameness and a fighting heart; he showed that he had the most powerful punch in the ring; he demonstrated that he did not need the "rabbit punch" to make him effective and he showed, above all, that, in spite of the advance of civiliaztion, there is still one of those primitive fighters who knows that there is nothing to do but take everythin gthe opponent has, and then beat him.

The Argentine giant was a marvelous obxer today, much better than when hobeat Bill Brennan. He was much lighter in poundage and he moved faster on his feet. He showed that he knew a vague little bit about covering up, but he needs little of that when he has the heart to take ti and the ability to hit as no man has hit since gloves were established as the polite successors of the jaw bones of the mastadons and the trunks of giant oaks.

DEMPSEY BOUT PLANS MAKE WEST FIGHT CENTER AGAIN

Birdseye view of Shelby, Mont., and hills beyond it, in which natural amphitheater has been found for proposed fight. Tom Gibbons, left, and Jack Dempsey.

Plans are practically complete, reports state now, for a heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons, July 4, at Shelby, Mont. The proposed site is in th heart of the Montana oil fields. It has but a few thousand in population. If the bout is staged there it will sound the return of the west as the center of fistiana. In the old days brilliant pages in ring history were written at Goldfield, Reno and Carson City, Nev., and later in Venice and other California cities. Then the tide drifted east and New York became the fistic center.

SCHULTE'S SQUAD DEFEATS INDIANS

Cornhusker Tracksters Show Heels to Redskins In Dual Track Meet.

Coach Henry F. Schulte's Cornhusker tracksters took the measure of the Haskell Indians in a dual track meet, staged Saturday in conjunction with the state high school track carnival at the state fair grounds, Nebraska winning by a margin of 76 2-3 to 54 1-3. The field events were contested in the forenoon, while the track events were put over until the afternoon.

The redskins presented a well-balanced team which gave the Cornhuskers a stiff argument and tight rub both on the track and in the field. Schulte's sprinters outclassed the Indians in the three short dashes, in which the Cornhuskers got away with every place and point.

The feature of the meet was Hartley's performance in the javelin throw, in which the captain of the 1922 Cornhuskers football team took credit for a throw of 189 feet 6 inches, thereby surpassing the record in the Missouri Valley conference. Wenke, placing second for Nebraska in the same event, also topped the Valley record. Auge of Haskell, winner of the discus throw, in which he was marked at 136 feet and 4 inches, also broke a Valley conference record.

Track Captain Allen, miler; Slemmons, two-miler, and Ted Smith and Layton, quarter-milers, were given a layoff by Coach Schulte and did not compete. The summary:

Black Sox Players First Round of Suit Against Comiskey

MILWAUKEE, May 12—Three former Chicago White Sox baseball players won and lost portions of their fight to recover damages from the Chicago Americans here today.

Judge John J. Gregory in circuit court here ruled against their charges that Charles Comisky, president o fthe Chicago club, conspired against them by falsely accusing them of plotting to lose the 1919 world's series to the Cincinnati Reds. He then upheld their complaints that they were wrongfully dismissed from the club in breach of their contracts, upon which they are seeking to recover damages.

In Jackson's case, Judge Gregory over-ruled Comisky's demurrer to two causes for action, which will stand as a part of the complaint.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

Lincoln, Broken Bow and Callaway carried away the honors in the twenty-first annual state interscholastic track and field meet held at the Nebraska state fair grounds Saturday afternoon. The three teams won in their represpective groups.

The four hundred fifty high school athletes, wearin gthe colors of more than forty different Nebraska high schools, lowered three state records, regardless of the fact that the dirt track was trifle spongy underfoot.

The three records to fall were the 440-yard dash, the 880-yard run and the mile run.

New Mark in Half-Mile.

Hubert Franck of Tobias chalked up the first new record when he won the group one mile in 2 minutes 1 9-10 seconds. This betters the mark of 2 minutes 3 2-5 seconds, made by George in 1910. Franck also holds the record in the mile run at 5 minutes 37 1-5 seconds, made in the state meet last year.

Ostergard of Gothenburg turned in the second record—breaking performance when he negotiated the 440-yard dash in 52 seconds flat. This betters the mark of 52 2-5 seconds set by Hahn of Falls City in 1920.

The last record to be established was registered a few minutes before the meet closed, when the Tecumseh relay quartet, running against the crack Broken Bow four, lowered the state record in the 880-yard delay to 1 minutes 35 6-10 seconds. The former record was made by an Omaha Central quartet in 1911 and stood at 1 minute 36 2-5 seconds.

Best Meet in History.

The meeting was the most successful ever stage in Nebraska high school circles. The big state fair grounds stadium afford the spectators an excellent opportunity to see all the events, the competition in all events was keen and the number of athletes competing the greatest in high school annals.

Ranking close to the record-breaking performances of the Nebraska athletes was the work done by Avard Mandery of Tecumseh in the sprints and W. Welch of Berwyn qand Franck of Tobias in the distance events.

Mandery was the only athlete to come through with two all-events championships He stepped the 100-yard dash in 10 3-5 seconds and stepped the 220-yard dash in 23 1-10 seconds. Running anchor on the Tecumseh relay quartet, it was his speedy work that enabled the Johnson country four to hang up a new record.

Clashed In Thrilling Duel.

Welch of Berwyn was the distance runner who pressed Franck hard and forced him to set a new half-mile record to win the race. The pair raced neck and neck the entire route, Welch held the lead brief instant as they turned to come down the stretch and hung tenaciously on Franck's heels until a final lunge at the tape decided the result. It was a blanket finish, with the Tobias runner naved a few inches the advantage.

The Custer county runner came back in the mile run and beat Franck. He forced the pace from the outset and the pair staged the prettiest race of the afternoon. This time it was the Berwyn colors which led the way down the home-stretch, the Berwyn lad broke the tape a matter of inches ahead of Franck. Welch's time came within a fraction of a second of equalling the state record for the mile run.

Lincoln Upset the Dope.

The easy victory of Lincoln high in the group three competition came rather as a surprise to Nebraska track fans. The Red and Black team won the Hastings college invitation meet, but it was thought the fast competition of a state meet might cut in on the Lincoln score.

Lincoln, however, came through in great shape, Coach Gautsch's athletes winning three firsts, a string of seconds and a couple of fourths. Lincoln scored 30 points, while Hastings was second with 21 1-2 points and Fremont a point in the rear. Omaha Central, 1922 champion, was fourth with fifteen points.

Broken Bow Wins Group Two.

Broken Bow came through and won group two laurels. The Custer county champions counted 34½ points. Gothenburg, state penthathlon champion, was second with 30 points, due largely to the work of Karr, Holmes and Ostergard. Tecumseh was third with 27½ points. McKenzie and Tecumseh doing the major share of the scoring.

Coache Rosene's Callaway high school athletes won their second consecutive victory in group one. Lastyear Callaway nosed DeWitt out of first place by one lone point. This year it was Clay Center that challenged the cinder artists from Custer county and Callaway won by the slender margin of two points, victory for Callaway in the relay clinching the title. Summary of the meet:

Group Three.

Preakness Stake Won By Vigil In Thrilling Spurt

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 12—Vigil came from the rear at the three-quarters post and, in a thrilling spurt, nosed out General Thatcher for first place in the celebrated $50,000 Preakness stakes here this afternoon. Rialto was third, with Zev, the favorite, trailing out of the money.

With 40,000 people crowded into the stands to watch the close of the Maryland spring racing seeason, Virgil, owned by Walter J. Salmon, hid behind the pack for the early part of the mile and a furlong distance.

Goshawak walked away from the barrier first and set the pace to the three-quarters mark. Tall Timber was right behind and Zev swung into third place. They held the order until, coming into the stretch, Virgil in a brilliant dash stepped out in front.

General Thatcher moved up too, and they fought it out down to the finish, Vigil winning by almost a length. Rialto was a length behind General Thatcher.

The winner paid $11 to win, $6 to place and $3.70 show in the pari-mutuals. General Thatcher's backers drew $6 for place and $4.20 show. Rialto was $2.90 show. The time was 1:53 2-5.

A DESIRABLE DUPLEX HOUSE

This duplex house will appeal to many homebuilders, especially those who desire a plan of the "double" arrangement. The apartments are one above the other, with five rooms in each division. From the exterior, the house has the appearance of a large single residence, which is much desired. The overall dimensions are 44 ft. 11 inches wide (including the separate porches at the sides and 45 ft 10 in. deep. Thus a very moderate amount of ground space is needed and yet two comfortable—even luxurious—apartments are provided for.

The exterior is in brick and tile construction for the first story, with half-timbers and stucco above. Clipped gables are an interesting feature. The steep shingle roof makes possible a splendid attic, which is equally accessible to both apartments, and which may be finished off into extra rooms if desired. The arrangement of the stair is a noteworthy feature of this desirable plan. Besides the separate front stair leading to the second-floor home, there is a rear hall at the rear of the building which provides access with privacy for occupants of both floors from basement to attic. Notice, too, the entire privacy of the two living porches on the first floor.

The plans are practically identical for each suite. The first floor house has a coat closet off the entry and a closet near the bathroom, both of which are impractical on the second floor. The second floor living room has the dormer rather than casements to afford light from the second side. Otherwise the two apartments are equally desirable. Casements are used throughout the building, and are an essential factor in the excellent appearance of the building.

Living room, dining room and kitchen occupy the left side of each apartment, while two bedrooms with bath between, and the stair halls occupy the right. The sizes of the rooms are excellent. A fireplace in each living room is a feature that appeals to everyone, more especially since it is one of the things that is usually considered dispensable in a duplex or two-family house. French doors are attractive between living room and dining room. A built-in sideboard of handsome design, but chosen from stock woodwork, like the other woodwork items, makes the dining room a homey place. Housewifely hearts can well rejoice at the compact square kitchen, with its casement windows on two sides, and its abundance of built in conveniences. Across one side of it are two kitchen dressers, with sink and drainboard between, under the casements. There are builtin shelves in the separate entry.

The bedrooms are reached from the living room by way of a small hall. There is an abundance of closet space, including a large clothes closet and a tray case in each, and an extra closet in the rear bedroom. The bathrooms are large and well arranged, including a medicine cabinet with a mirror door. As mentioned, only the lower apartment has a separate linen closet, off the hall near the bathroom.

Such a plan as this makes it possible for many a family to have a home of their own, which they could not do if separate houses were built, because the rental from the second apartment goes a long way toward making the payments on the investment in the building. It is necessary, of course, to use unusual care in the selection of a plan, if the house is not to look like a hotel or apartment. The one shown here seems to meet all requirements, both artistic and practical.

John Zimmer, Former Lincoln Man Now Bird Curator of Big Chicago Museum, Tells of Finding "Lost Soul" Bird in South American Jungle

Camp in Mountains, Peru.

New Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago

Forest-covered Slopes of Andes - Peru.

Ancient Ruins, Peru.

A long, lonely cry in the depths of jungle and forest, in the darkest hours of night, a cry of a soul in distress and the natives say, "Ah the Lost Soul is crying again."

The "Lost Soul," a bird of the wilderness, a rare bird and one that has been brought back recently from South America, to the Field Museum in Chicago by John T. Zimmer of Lincoln, has an interesting legend connected with it, a legand is told to all strangers by the natives of the Andean slopes.

Once upon a time, so the natives say, there was a man who married a woman with two children. The man loved the woman dearly, but he hated the children. The sight of them aggravated him so that one day he told the woman the children must be killed. She would not consen to this, but later agreed that the man should take them to the jungle and lose them. Afterwards it preyed upon her mind to such an extent that she was forced to go to the jungle herself and seek them. She could not find them. All she could hear was the weird, pitiful cry which the natives claim is the souls of the children crying for their mother.

Shot Bird at Night.

The "Lost Soul" is a nocturnal bird, and was hard to get, according to Mr. Zimmer, who is bird curator for the museum. The natives told him he would never get the bird, but after weeks of watching and waiting he succeeded and shot it about 1:30 o'clock one morning.

"Had I known before what I discovered after I had the bird, that its eyes reflected the light, it would not have been so hard to get," said Mr. Zimmer. "But I didn't know it, and I had quite an exciting time of it before I was through. The night I shot the bird I heard it about a half mile off. I imitated its cry and soon the bird was coming in my direction. This was rather strange, too, because as a rule, the nocturnal birds, especially those of the jungle and forest do not respond to a cry from one of their kind. But this one did. It came closer and closer, I could hear it all of the time, and kept calling back to it. There were no dead trees in the spot of the forest where I was, so I kept the bird following me until I found some, so that could see it by moonlight when it alighted. It lighted in one of the trees, and I could see it perfectly. I shot it, and that's all.

"The 'Lost Soul' belongs to the whip-poor-will family, and is far from a pretty bird. It is long, has an unusually large mouth and a small bill, great big eyes, and is a speckled gray and white.

This is the rarest specimen out of fifteen hundred birds Mr. Zimmer brought back to the states with him. He also brought back several hundred reptiles, including snakes, lizards, frogs, toads and the like.

Mr. Zimmer left for South America about thirteen months ago, and landed at Callao, Peru. Going inland a short distance, he spent considerable time there before continuing his journey across the country to the Atlantic coast.

From jungle to forest, from forest to plain, from a snow storm into the hottest summer, making roads and improvising bridges as he went along were just a few of the things Mr. Zimmer experienced. It depended entirely upon where you were what sort of climate you had, whether it was winter or summer.

'I couldn't tell a thing about time down there, because there were no seasons," said Mr. Zimmer. "Of course we knew the rainy and dry seasons, but I would have to look up everything that I wanted to know as far as time and dates were concerned, for I wouldn't be able to tell whether it was something that happened three years or three months ago. Time just goes on from day to day, but you can't keep track of it."

Into Jungle Thickets.

The bits of jungle that we see placed in some botanical garden gives all of us the idea that a jungle would be a perfectly beautiful place with beautiful vines, flowers, all kinds of gorgeous birds and so on, but Mr. Zimmer says that this is not true. Some of the jungles are attractive, he says, but the majority of them are not. The flowers are not beautiful. Once in a while you will stumble on to some orchids, but rarely. You will see now and then a gaudy bird, but none that are more beautiful as a whole, than our birds. Even the wild animals that we are told so much about, and that are supposed to constantly be prowling about looking for prey, are seen now and then, but not to the great extent one would imagine. The jaguar, the black panther, the mountain lion, tigers and other jungle animals do their prowling at night, usually in a very quiet and dignified manner, the 'black howler' being the only jungle inhabitant that is a pest to sound sleepers. The 'black howler' is a monkey that makes a fiendish noise during the night ,and keeps everyone awake that is any where near him.

The natives very often set traps for animals, generally down by a stream where the animals will come to drink. Mr. Zimmer had a very narrow escape one time, when he accidentally stepped on a trap that had been set with a sawed-off shot gun. His shoes caught fire, but he was not injured, fortunately.

Thrills of the Search.

Another time he missed being covered by a landslide by just thirty seconds, and still another time while his mules were jogging along one of the mountain roads he came to a place where the road had disappeared entirely. It had all gone over the bank and down the slope.

'Most of the roads through the mountainous parts of the country are of rock covered over with dirt," says Mr. Zimmer, "and when a bad rain comes it loosens the dirt around the rock, and the first thing you know, rock, dirt, roads and all go over the bank. Then there is nothing to do but get out and build a new road.

"It isn't easy traveling by any means, and it is slow. Many times I have worked hard for two days to get through a jungle or woods, having to cut out the undergrowth as I went along, or having to improvise a bridge out of vines, and at the close of the second day I would only be a stone's throw from the place where I started.

"There is something impressive about some parts of the jungle and forest. Especially when you come to a place where the trees are so old that they have grown tall and spread out, the shade killing out all of the undergrowth. When you reach a spot like that you feel like taking off your hat. It gives the appearance of a large, stately cathedral, and is really beautiful.

Natives Prove Interesting.

"The natives around the country are interesting people. They can't understand the particular brand of lunacy that brings a white man many Hundreds of miles, taking him through many hardships, just to get some birds and animals. They understand that such lunacy exists because they would bring me animals they had killed. I would shock them further by throwing the good meat away and just keeping the skin. They couldn't comprehend it, but nevertheless they brought things to me just the same.

"The natives are superstitious creatures. They came to me one day and asked to use the plantation bell to talk to the dead spirits. It certainly was a weird affair. One would tap on the bell a few times and then listen for an answer from the departed spirits, then he would tap again, no doubt expecting an answer from another one. They kept this up for hours. One would finish and another would begin.

"They are not especially superstitious about the "Lost Soul," however, although I think they firmly believe the story they tell about it. They never capture one, and seemed to think it could not be done."

Burlington Depot At Hubbell Burns With Furnishings

(Special to The Star.)

HUBBELL, Neb., May 12.—The Burlington depot at this place burned to the ground at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, breaking the Kansas City to Denver and Wymore wires, and destroying a part of the railway records, and all the furnishings of the depot. The agent was on duty and as the morning was chilly he burned a supply of old paper and refuse in the stove. It is thought the fire started from the flue, or from fire brands which alighted on the shingle roof. Most of the supply of tickets and the records of importance were saved by employes and citizens There is no city fire protection here, and the fire spread so rapidly that citizens were unable to extinguish the blaze. The loss is considered to be $2,000. The depot was a land mark, having been built in 1881, when the railway was building through to the west, and for a time was the terminus of the road here.

Hotel Case to Be Heard Saturday by Judge Woodrough

(Special to The Star.)

OMAHA, Neb., May 12.—The various interests that are seeking possession of Hotel Fontenelle will face each other before Federal Judge Woodrough next Saturday on an appeal of Eugene Eppley from the decision of the referee.

"This case is getting so mixed up that the sooner we have a hearing the better for all concerned," said Judge Woodrough in setting the time.

"We want an order to compel Eppley to place the rent money on deposit every month," said Henry Monsky, represent the Douglas Hotel company which owns the hotel property.

Because two other pretended owners of the lease besides Eppley have tendered the rent money monthly, the owning company has not accepted the rent from any of them.

National President Herbert Choynski of San Francisco, Conrad Mann, past worthy president, of Kansas City, Mo., and Judge Duncan of St. Joseph, Mo, will be among the prominent speakers.

Prizes are being offered for the best exemplification of ritualistic work by the aeries of the order in Nebraska.

Those taking part in the play were: Miss McCall, Miss Harrold, Miss McGuire, Miss Purdy, Miss Mills, Miss Parker, Miss Lardahl, Rev. C. A. Randall, Supt. A. B. C Jacobs, Carl Swanson and G. A. Spidel. The play was coached by Mrs. Vita Oberlander. Music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. John Loder. The proceeds will be applied upon the purchase of a school piano.

ARM IS BROKEN.

WYMORE, Neb., May 12—During a school class picnic in Furnas park here Friday afternoon, Velma Flessner, ten year old daughter of William Flessner, Wymore laborer, fell and broke her arm. It is understood she attempted to jump across a small ditch, and slipped and fell on her elbow.

Auto Goes Over Hurting Two Men

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., May 12.—Ted Neill and Sidney Minor, both of this city, narrowly escaped serious injury when the car in which they were riding turned over just west of town pinning both beneath. Minor suffered a broken arm and a deep cut on the head. Neill escaped with serious bruises and scratches. The car was wrecked.

PHILLIP SYNOVEC DIES.

(Special to The Star.)

WYMORE, Neb., May 12—Phillip Synovec, sixty-nine years old, who has lived on a farm near Sand Cut-six miles southeast of here for the past thirty-five years, died suddenly at his home Friday. Blodgett Enters Automobile Game

WYMORE, Neb., May 12.—C. L. Blodgett, employed in the Burlington offices at Lincoln for many years, recently an extra dispatcher in the Wymore office, has resigned and accepted a district managership position for the Durant and Star automobile sales department, with headquarters at Minneapolis. He takes charge of his new duties at once. Other Lincoln men, including R. B. Thornton, former widely known wire chief in the Lincoln Burlington office, are interested in the northwest district.

Oppose Building New School Now

WYMORE, Neb., May 12.—At a mass meeting in the high school building Friday night discussions for and against the building of Wymore's new $200,000 high school were heard. It is generally admitted that the present building is not in good condition and not large enough to meet the present day demands, having been erected over forty years ago, but several influential and prominent citizens and business men oppose the building of a new school on the theory that it will result in taxing Wymore people too high, and a committee was appointed to make another thorough survey and ascertain the cost of repairing and building an annex to the old building.

Foreman Captures Runaway Box Car

HILDRETH, Neb., May 12.—A strong wind came up suddenly here from the northwest Friday afternoon and blew an empty box car out of the switch and down the main track east of here. The section foreman took after it on a gasoline motor and the car was stopped half way to Upland, the next town, and a passenger train had to shove it back here.

BABY DIES.

(Special to The Star.)

WYMORE, Neb., May 12—The six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Milligan, of Wymore, died Friday afternoon, of internal trouble.

Garage Mechanics Favor the Hupmobile

The downright enthusiasm of garagemen in general for the Hupmobile is one of the most significant developments in the automobile industry.

These men can tell you some of the reasons back of the Hupmobile's amazing economy and reliability.

They would tell you that Hupmobile costs little to maintain because of the way it is designed and the way it is built—and they would cite instance after instance to illustrate the point.

When Caesar Crossed the Rubicon

—he exclaimed, "The Die Is Cast," fully realizing that it was in defiance of the Senate, and of fateful significance to himself.

His motive was far greater than personal aggrandizement, and it was due to his vision that Rome reached its greatest development.

In less than a year he was acclaimed by the populace, and tendered the dictatorship of Rome. The common people were enriched by his laws and the mark of his wisdom lives to this day.

COLE

Establishes "Net" Automobile Prices

THE launching of the Cole Merchandising Plan was as revolutionary in its way as was Caesar's crossing of the Rubicon.

It was in defiance of established precedent, and meant a new era in motor car merchandising.

At one stroke the Cole Merchandising Plan eliminated the greatest waste in the motor car world, and over night met with the approval of the press, public and financial fraternity.

Not because Cole sponsored it, but because of its fundamental soundness this plan has been endorsed by the biggest business men of America, by dealers' associations, and by high automotive officials everywhere.

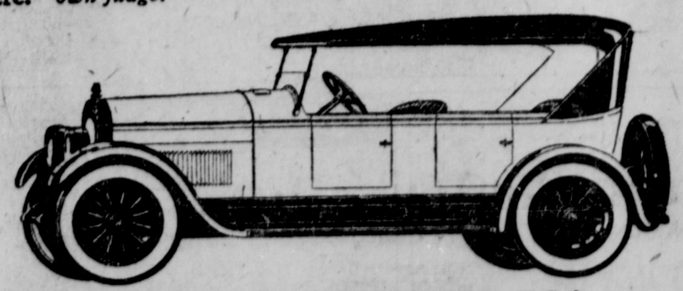

And remember that this is on the finest car that Cole has ever produced. Built on the standard chassis which has been constantly perfected for seven years, it is the finest car we have ever produced.

For 16 years Coles have had the reputation of being fine cars, and the policy shall be to strive for added refinements constantly.

Whether or not you have an old car, remember Cole saves you $800 to $1,000 by his Merchandising Plan. Consult your local Cole dealer and let him show you how this saving can be accomplished.

University Players Appear In Comedy Written By Brown

A rollicking comedy in three acts, full of action, pep and laughs is "Adventure For Two," written by Neil Brown, ex-university man, and prominent in dramat'c circles and played by the University Players at the Temple theatre Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and night.

The story revolves around Richard Lanthrope, a novelist, who is considered quite a lion by all of the society folk, but who refuses to be lionized. He imagines himself somewhat of a woman hater stating that never yet has there been a girl who has appealed especially to him.

Meanwhile, two girls are plotting against him. One of them has invited him to a house party and he has declined the invitation. The other, Geraldine Lane, has made a bet that she can persuade him to go to the house party. A string of pearls is put up as a stake, and then Geraldine gets busy. Needless to say Richard goes to the house party, and then what hapens makes a snappy climax to an unusually clever play.

Neil Brown, as Richard Lanthrope was superb, and as usual Miss Irma McGowan, in the leading role of Geraldine Lane, was lovely. A strong supporting cast did much to make the play a success.

The cast was as follows:
Richard Langthorpe—Neil Brown.
Hanson—Arnim West.
Higgins—Jess Randoll.
Robert Lacey—Harold Felton.
First Intruder—
Second Intruder—
Alice Prescott—Viola Loosbrock.
Mrs. Castleton—Sinnia Billups.
Mrs. Payson—Helen Wiggins.
Grace Deveraux—Myrtle Carpenter.
Phyllis Lohman—Marguerite Munger.
Judge Edward Lane—Foster Matchett.
Mrs. Edward Lane—Margaret Hager.

Takes Up Question Of O'Brien Claim With Legislator

State Auditor Marsh has decided to write to Representative R. R. Vance of Hastings, chairman of the house claims committee at the recent session of the legislature, in regard to the $1,200 appropriated in the claims bill for four years back salary to Supt. W. J. O'Brien of the state fish hatcheries at North Bend.

He will ask Vance what representations were made to the committee in behalf of this item and whether they were led to believe that the superintendent was entitled to $2,400 a year under the appropriation made in 1919 but was permitted by Agriculture Secretary Stuhr to draw only $2,100 a year.

Mr. Marsh spent Friday afternoon going through the printed legislative journals of 1919 and finally found a paragraph authorizing payment of $2,100 salary, but did not discover anything to support the $2,400 claim.

THE BIG-SIX SPEEDSTER, COMPLETELY EQUIPPED AS ILLUSTRATED, $1835

$45,000,000 Worth of Studebaker Big-Sixes in 1922

The public paid more than forty-five million dollars for new Studebaker Big-Six automobiles in 1922, buying more of this model than of any other car selling in the same price field.

In the entire world there were only eleven other automobile manufacturers whose total sale of all models equaled the sale of Studebaker Big-Sixes for 1922, and no other manufacturer sold as many cars of the Big-Six class. In addition to the Big-Six, Studebaker builds the Special-Six and the Light-Six in large volume.

For the first quarter of 1923, Big-Six sales showed an increase of 70 per cent over the same period of 1922, evidencing the growing popularity of this model. Big-Six popularity is the result of Big-Six superiority. Materials and workmanship are unexcelled in any car at any price, and unequaled in any other car at the Big-Six price.

With its long 126-inch wheel base, big 4½-inch tires, heavy frame, scientifically distributed load, long Studebaker-made springs, the Big-Six Speedster rides more comfortably than most cars selling at much more money. Its 3⅞ x 5 motor delivers a world of power, plenty of speed and a quickness of getaway hard to equal.

The price is the result of quantity production.

PERMANENT ENAMEL BAKED ON STEEL

Eight years ago, when Dodge Brothers originated the all-steel motor car body, they took advantage of the absence of wood in the framework to bake an enamel finish on the surface of the steel.

In a vast series of electric ovens, especially designed and built by Dodge Brothers' engineers for this process, three distinct coats of black enamel are successively baked on the steel at an intensely high temperature.

The result is a finish so hardy and durable that it seldom requires more than a good cleaning and polishing to restore the original brightness.

Even in sections of the Southwest where alkali in the soil is especially destructive to body finishes, Dodge Brothers enamel retains its beautiful lustre after years of wear.

THIS MAN STINNES

That man Stinnes looms up as Germany's greatest hope.

It has been only in recent months that America has been hearing of Stinnes, yet before the opening of the world war he was one of the greatest industrial and business chieftans of Europe. The close of the war found his properties destined to fall under the control of the Allies, particularly France, and ruin was apparently staring him in the face. Yet, in the brief space of three years he has built up the greatest super-trust the world has ever known. German industry means Stinnes. He supplies five continents with various necessities of life.

This most amazing captain of industry is the subject of an exceedingly intereting series of articles written by Hiram Kelly Moderwell for The Chicago Daily News.

Moderwell tells us that before France blockaded the Ruhr, Stinnes' ships sailed to North and South America, Asia and Africa, carrying the products of his mines and mills, and returning with meat and grain and raw material for Europe.

"From his own properties Stinnes can build and light and heat a house, and supply all of the utensils needed to equip it," Moderwell declares. "He can provide me with reading matter, whether daily news, weekly jokes or imporving literature. He can feed me meat, bread, and jam. He can give me medicine when I am sick and when I am cured can take me on a pleasure cruise, put me up at one of his own hotels and actually print the money with which I pay him.

"To the Germans he has become a mysterious power, a spook, who turns up in a dozen places at once and invisibly moves the wheels of fate. Now he is in England offering terms to the banks of the city. Again he is in Italy, arranging matters with Mussolini, with E. H. Gary, with the pope. The French write that he is upsetting their plans in Jugoslavia. The English cable he is getting the retail trade of Mesopotamia When the stock exchange is flurried, people whisper, "Stinnes has come." When it has quieted down they look around to see what new fortune Stinnes has acquired,"

The Stinnes' fortune was founded on coal, we are told. The grandfather of the German capitalist owned a small fleet of sailboats on the Rhine in the time of Napoleon. The elder Stinnes, with the opening of the Rhine to traffic, and the growing demand for coal when factory production was just starting bought coal mines and then more coal mines. When the steamship appeared, he was first with the steamship. Then began the amazing development of the steel industry, and once again a Stinnes was first on the job—this time the present head of the family. He bought up all the smaller blast furnaces and steel mills. He took over all of the electrical works and power plants, supplying a large section of the Ruhr. He buit railroads.

At the opening of the world war he was one of the ten greatest industrial leaders of Europe. Then came German disaster. Stinnes' holdings in the sections of Lorraine and Luxemburg were in the hands of the enemy. His supplies of raw material for the rest of his plants were cut off, and he found himself hemmed in by enemies. Ordinarily it would have been said, Moderwell remarks, that "his day was done. But apparent ruin was only the dawn of his greatness."

Three years after the close of the war, the world sees Stinnes, doomed by all rules of business to failure, at the zenith of his power. His super-trust has been built and is working smoothly.

In the brief time that had elapsed he had fastened his hold more securely on German industry. He re-established his coal mines, and then to insure supplies of wood needed for construction work in the mines, purchased forests in east Prussia and Scandinavia. To consume the surplus produce of the forests, he bought cellulose mills and paper factories. To make certain a steady sale of those products, he bought newspapers and publishing houses.

He bought sugar mills in Czecho-Slovakia, acquired heavy interests in vast banking institutions, and secured control of the most influential papers in half a dozen countries. He rebuilt his shipping fleet and took over a string of hotels. There was nothing which his genius did not touch.

That man Stinnes today is preparing Germany for industrial leadership in the world, when the vexing problems resulting from the world war have been finally settled.

His uncanny ability to meet every obstacle and turn everything he touches into gold explains why certain American journalists are now proclaiming that America has delayed too long in her bid for world trade. We are to believe that Stinnes is one jump ahead,with factories prepared to manufacture for the needs of mankind at a cost far below anything American industry can hope to approach. America's opportunity remained until Stinnes' super-trust began functioning. No such combination of capital, insuring as it does minimum production costs, will ever be possible in this country. A free people would not tolerate the close interlinking of industry, which has been so vital to Stinnes' program.

Is it too much to say that Stinnes, with his super-trust, has won for Germany the commercial supremacy, which was one of the underlying motives behind the Kaiser and his war lords in their war against civilization? Has his genius for organization and industry won where the mailed fist lost?

SIMPLIFYING LAW.

The Carnegie Corporation has given $1,075,000 to the American Law Institute, recently organized by leading judges and lawyers in America, for the purpose of restating and simplifying the law. The gift makes certain one of the most sweeping reforms in American jurisprudence.

The American Law Institute was founded as a result of an inquiry into causes for the law's delay conducted by a committee, header by Elihu Root. The report was submitted last February at a meeting in Washington and the Institute was formed to carry out the committee's recommendations.

"The remedy proposed is a restatement of the common law made by an institute representing the courts, the bar, and the faculties of the leading law schools, said a statement from the institute. "The work which the institute is undertaking is the most ambitious legal work undertaken by the profession in any country. While a complete restatement of the law such as is contemplated cannot be made in ten years, it is believed that many of the most important topics can be completed in that time, and the value of the institute and its work thoroughly demonstrated."

The Institute has put its finger on the sore point in American jurisprudence. Delay in settlement of cases is the cause of more general dissatisfaction with the American courts than any other source of complaint. The delays are the results of resort to the innumerable technicalities which have crept into law. The legal profession can do no finer work than to sweep away the cobwebs, which retard justice. Quick justice is the crying demand today.

IN DEFENSE OF LONGFELLOW.

"Inescapable in our language are Longfellow's pictures, phrases and rhythms."

Our generation, which as soon as it grows out of the fifth reader and into modern fiction and magazine reading, is inclined to scoff at the Cambridge poet and to poke fun at the "threadbare, outworn similes" of his poems, will be surprised to read in the current issue of The Literary Digest, the convincing defense of Longfellow written by W. L. Werner. In answer to one of the usual slighting remarks about Longfellow's poetry appearing in the "irresponsible column" of the New York World, edited by Mr. Broun, Mr. Werner comes ably to the defense of the American master of letters although he shows that a defense is not needed for the thoughtful or the student of literary history.

The sentence at the beginning is an example of the way Mr. Werner fires broadsides into the columnist of the New York oWrld. The defender of Longfellow brought facts to his side and Mr. Broun admitted that the joke was turned on him and published the reply. A part of it is worth reviewing. We have all come to classifying Longfellow as a necessary literary bore.

"Before his work the study of living foreign languages in the United tSates was a joke," declares Mr. Werner. "He went to Europe and learned to speak the languages himself. He not only learned the usual French, German and Italian, but he studied Spanish and the Scandinavian tongues. In most of these languages he had to make his own grammars and text books for use at Harvard. His labors were inedfatigable. He reorganized the study of foreign languages, and furthermore he translated enormously for the benefit of the 100 per cent Americans of his day. Under his able direction American college students were required to get more than a smattering of foreign phrases."

But it is in another part of his reply that Mr. Werner comes closest to silencing forever all literary radicals who make merry of the poet Longfellow. How vividly he calls to our attention the part the Cambridge singer has in all our hearts in these paragraphs.

"He is a better imagist than Amy Lowell. What incident of the Revolutionary war can yo remember most vividly? Probably Paul Revere's ride. After al these years you retain pictures of the village blacksmith, the mountain climbing youth with a banner, the hanging of the crane, Miles Standish's courtship by proxy, the wreck of the Hesperus, the bridge at midnight, the vacant chair, the ivy clinging to the mouldering wall, the sweeping garments of the night and the tent folding Arabs.

"Not only is Longfellow a maker of pictures that linger, but he is a maker of phrases that stick. Did you ever think of death as a reaper? Do you think of Harding as, 'Standing with reluctant feet?' Have you the feeling of shooting arrows into the air or leaving footprints on the sands of time?

"Have you ever noticed verses
Written in unrhymed trochaics
Without thinking as you read them
This was swiped from 'Hiawatha'?

Perhaps we owe some thanks to Mr. Werner for reminding us of something we should know for ourselves.

FOSTER'S COMPLAINT.

William Z. Foster, labor leader, whose trial on a charge of commercial syndicalism at St. Joseph, Mich., recently ended with a hung jury, is up to his old tricks.

Speaking before students of Columbia university recently, Foster is quoted as saying: that his recent trial was the result of efforts of capital to "put me out of the way."

In this contemptuous way Foster thus attacks the judiciary—one of the three branches of government in America. Is it possible that Foster really believes his own words? No more serious indictment against government can be uttered than to attack justice as administered by the courts of the land. In Britain, where constitutional and representative government still permits kinds to occupy the throne there is reverence for the courts. Only in America, where man has greater freedom of thought and speech than anywhere else in the world, can men strike at the vitals of law and justice.

It is time that continued attacks upon the court's should stop. We know comparatively little about the charges preferred against Foster in Michigan. But we do know that no prosecutor will bring an action without good cause. We know that no court will hold a man for trial under the flimsy pretext which Foster claims is the basis of his troubles. If Foster is so certain capital is out to get him, he has provided the ammunition with which it is attacking him. No prosecutor or law court had a hand in that.

TOO MUCH FOR THE MELTING POT.

A current cartoon depicts Judge Gary, head of the steel trust, in the role of Pandora throwing up the lid of a big box labled "Foreign Immigration" and letting out a swarm of communist agitators, anarchists with bombs, black hand agents, and other undesirables to carry on their nefarious work in the United States.

Nothing could better illustrate the real significance of Gary's proposal to let down the bars and admit into this country the hordes of aliens that he thinks should be brought in to supply the demand for industrial laborers. America has had ample experience in the past which should serve as an effective warning against such a policy.

Despite all that many organizations throughout the country are doing to Americanize the masses of foreign population already in the United States, there still remains large groups of these people who have never learned to speak the English language nor become acquainted with the country's system of government. In the large cities, hundreds of thousands of aliens are congregated together, living in crowded quarters and imbibing the destructive political doctrines of bolshevistic leaders.

Until some way is found to enlighten the minds of the foreign immigrants now here and bring them into closer touch with our institutions, it would be national suicide to open the gates and allow other millions of them to enter. The steel trust's need of laborers cannot be permitted to outweigh the general welfare.

In future, the American people are going to demand a closer scrutiny of those who come in to enjoy the opportunities which this country offers. They are going to insist on the breaking up of foreign groups where alien languages, ideals and sympathies prevail. There will be an increasing insistence on restricting immigration which tends to foster such conditions.

This sentiment has nothing to do with the desire of labor leaders to hold down the number of workers so that employers can be forced to pay higher wages. Fair-minded people are just as much opposed to a labor monopoly as to any other monopoly. But, taking the country as a whole, it is a question of "Safety first." A temporary shortage of labor is infinitely better than to allow the bringing in of human riff-raff from the far corners of the earth.

The honest man may be rewarded but the clever will probably be taken care of first.

HOMER BALMY TAKES PEN IN HAND

By L. H. Robbins

SOCIETY MANNERS.

A true gentleman flicks his ashes into the nearest lady's bread-and-butter plate until the coffee comes on, when he uses her cup.

Mrs. Gertrude Atherton.
New York City.
Dear Madam:

I notice where yourself and other lady writers are now discussing in the magazines about us American men needing more manners. Well, ma'am, it is probably true, alas. But there are two points which you ladies ought not to forget.

(1) Manners are like music lessons. You have to catch men young to give them to them.

(2) You do not know what us masculines are up against in our youth if we have manners.

A little girl can have nice manners and it is all right. She can be polite and affable and timid and never yell or grab or shove, and nobody will despise her. She can be learned to say "Thank you ever so much," and no harm done.

But you let a little boy have nice manners anywheres in my section, and he is liable to regret it, I regret to state.

My Cousin Raymond was an horrible example to me. He never forgot to fold his napkin or wash his ears or say "Please may I be excused?" Hence many the time he had to linger after school and have the teacher walk home with him for the sake of safety first. Saturdays he stayed in his own yard. Sundays was the only days he really lived. The gang's fathers were home that day and so they put off chasing him till Monday.

Well, ladies, I took warning from his fate and did without any more manners than possible until last year, and then I suddenly got interested in the opposition sex and began to wish I had a few.

It was too late. I went to the library and asked them for some book that would be a sort of a Short Cut to Refined Actions, which a man could study at the eleventh hour and get by. They said it was out, and there was a waiting list as long as a fire hose.

I thought how would it do to put myself at the mercy of some cultured young lady and let her gradually train me? But my manners were so minus that I never could get near enough to one of them to ask her. I found out what people meant by sex inequality.

You will be pleased to hear, however, that I have not given up struggling to reform myself. For some time now I have been nosing around our fashionable section after dark with my eyes open, gathering pointers on behaving in society, particularly as regard smoking, which you ladies complain of so hard.

I find that the rules for smoking in society are not so complicated but what any earnest person can master them after a little practice.

Let us first take up the etiquette of the cigarette.

It used to be that a gentleman calling on a lady would greet her and seat himself in the parlor before lighting up. But now it is the thing for him to ignite his fag in the hall before removing his hat and overcoat. The idea is that the sooner he shows his hostess that he feels perfectly at home, the quicker he will free her from anxiety and put her at her ease.

Formerly, when elderly ladies with acute bronchitis were sitting around, he had to ask permission before smoking. This is no longer insisted upon. If grandmother gets to coughing she can easy remove herself down-cellar or elsewhere. Besides, colds are catching, and tobacco is a disinfectant, and the gentleman owes it to himself to at once begin to burn it and protect his health.

The day is past, I discover, when the smoking guest disposed of his refuse by gracefully flipping them into the next room or tossing them on the Oriental rugs. Match sticks are now laid in a neat row on a picture frame or dropped into the works of the grand piano. Cigarette stubs are moistened with the tongue and stuck on a chair leg or else radiator. When the lady dusts the parlor next day they will coyly remind her of the departed guest. Twenty to thirty cigarettes are all that a guest should smoke in an ordinary call unless the hostess forces more on him.

At the end of a call it used to be the custom for the lady's father to immediately rush in and throw the parlor windows open with a loud slam. Nowadays, however, the lady makes him wait until the visitor has got a good ways away down the street.

I have also picked up some hints on how to handle a cigar at a mixed bridge party. When not smoking it, the gentleman should lay it on the edge of the card table where its fragrant fumes will arise into the lady on his right's eyes, causing her to pull the wrong card and lose the trick. This method of gas attack is now in full force in many of our smart circles.

Cigars add to the atmosphere of a dinner party and may be lit with the soup. A true gentleman shows his breeding by not throwing the ashes under the table, but flicks them into the nearest lady's bread-and-butter plate or olive dish until the coffee comes on, when he uses her cup.

At home weddings, the ushers, the best man, the bridegroom, and the bride's father usually leave their pipes and other smoking materials outside on the porch rail during the ceremony. Guests, of course, are free to do as they like.

Coming home from the theatre with a lady on his hands, a gentleman finds that the old prejudice still persists against smoking in the street car. But he can carry his lighted stogie on board and gently keep it going by kind of drawing on it from time to time, which is certainly much better than to throw it into the street and maybe set the pavement on fire.

He may also show his manly independence of the trolly company by lighting up fresh just prior to getting off. Thus he will cause the passengers to remember him long after he has left. He is gone but not forgotten.

And so, Mrs. Atherton, a man should not feel all discouraged and get the inferiority complex habit just because his society manners have been neglected in his youth. By simply looking around this way and that, the way I have done, he will soon catch on how to behave himself. And then all doors will be open to him, let us hope.

Cordially yours,
HOMER BALMY.

Memories of Andersonville

Clint Parkhurst Adds Some Details to the Story of Infamous Rebel Prison as Featured in Last Sunday's Star and Verifies Its Tales of Miseries.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 12—To the Editor of The Lincoln Star:

"On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

The vivid, truthful, and finely written article about Andersonville that appeared in a recent issue of the Star has doubtless won wide attention. By the fortunes of war it was my fate to be a captive in that Hell upon earth, and I feel it my duty to fully endorso your ghastly recital, and to reinforce it on a few important points.

As little or no prospect existed for an exchange of prisoners, and as continued sojourn in the gloomy stockade meant certain death by slow starvation, or by disease brought on by exposure, exhaustion, and incessant hunger, men took desperate chances in trying to escape, and employed all arts of courage and cunning. Every morning, therefore, a troop of rebel cavalry circled around the stockade with a peal of hunting horns, leading a pack of ferocious blood hounds. If a trail was struck, as was often the case, the cavalry and hounds would go off at full speed after the prisoner. If he could reach a stream in time by wading, swimming, or finding a boat—he had a chance of throwing the dogs off his trail. If he was overtaken in the woods, and had time to climb a tree he could save himself. If he was overhauled in a field, he would be torn to pieces by the dogs before the cavalry could arrive. The tragedy often occurred. Although the cavalry took keen delight in chasing a prisoner—as much as any fox hunting British squire takes in following the hounds across country—as a rule the cavalry tried to save the man. This they could not always do. If they succeeded, he was taken back to Captain Wirz to be "made an example of." This meant that he was placed in a chain gang at headquarters and kept there till he died of starvation, exposure and brutal abuse. One of the charges proven against Wirz at his subsequent trial was that he had knocked down one of the chain gang men, stamped on his head, face and body, from the effects of which he died. Two other charges of murder were proven against Wirz and he was justly hanged. He was a monster of cruelty. When in 1865 the Union cavalry reached Andersonville and freed the few remaining prisoners there, Wirz fled in terror to the protection of General Wilson, an dwith good reason, for the prisoners had decided to seize him, chain him to a tree, and burn him.

Not Black Enough.

One of the vets the Star reporter conversed with, spoke of 'dying men being hauled away in the food wagons." That may have been a method employed at the commencement, but when I entered the stockade no sick man ever went out of the main gate. He stayed where he took sick and died there, (sick men never recovered). His naked dead body was thrown into a food wagon along with twenty other stiffs and hauled off to the grave yard. I saw naked dead soldiers piled into those wagons like so many dead hogs. There was no medicine and no pretense of medical treatment. Somewhere outside in the woods was a collection of rotten tents, dignified by the name post hospital," but the enemy had ceased to send any one there. Ninety-nine out of a hundred who died, died inside the stockade. Along about the month of September three open sheds without floors were built at the northern end of the prison pen, and were used for hospital purposes. No doctor ever called there and medicines never reached the place. A welcome shelter was afforded, however, for a very limited number of men.

All over this encampment of death sick prisoners lay scattered about on the ground, waiting for the final summons. They lay in the foot paths called streets; in the filth and mud; in the mire at the edge of the black swamp—any where that they gave up hope and lay down to die. When a man was dead his body was stripped of every vestige of clothing according to strict rules made and enforced by the prisoners, for clothing of any kind was scarce indeed. Almost everybody had been robbed of clothing, blankets, and utensils before being marched into the stockade. Even photographs and private letters were snatched from our pockets. I afterwards saw cavalry soldiers who had been captured in Stoneman's raid toward Andersonville and these unfortunates were sent into the stockade bare footed and with nothing on but drawers and undershirt, which meant certain death. One of the men interviewed by the Star says that as high as one hundred dead bodies per day went to the cemetery. This is placing the number altogether too low. The facts are on record. In August 1864, as high as two hundred dead bodies were taken out each day.

Men died fast and new prisoners came in, but we always kept close track of men in the stockade. One way we could do it was this: For the issue of rations the rebels divided — into detachments of two hundred seventy men each. Every detachment consisted of three nineties and each ninety was subdivided into three messes. Each detachment was designated in regular order by number. By merely multiplying a few numbers we could closely arrive at the prison's population, for the rebels kept their food accounts with great exactness, less some one should get too much to eat. The highest number of prisoners at any one time was about thirty-five thousand. The total number of dead was nearly fourteen thousand. Sometimes a rebel sergeant would tell us the count of prisoners for the preceding day. For various and dissimilar reasons, each side desired to know the number of men there.

Tunnels Found.

Tunnels were discovered continually and promptly filled up, keeping the enemy in alarm. One tunnel was so large and well constructed that men could have marched through it by thousands. It was evidently intended for a general outbreak. When Stoneman made his cavalry raid to reach Andersonville, General Winter gave a written order that the prison fort should open fire on us with grape and canister shot the moment it was known the Yankee cavalry was within twenty miles of the prison.

Until a few years ago, the original copy of that infamous order was on file at Washington, but it is probably not there now.

In a stump speech at the railroad station at Andersonville, the Honorable Howell Cobb, a distinguished Georgia statesman, said: Go over and look at the Yankees. Did you ever see such miserable devils? They are lower than the beasts of the field. Do you want such dirty miscreants to get your homes and wives and children? Forbid it, almighty God."

A very few months later General Tecumseh Sherman made arrangements to pass the night in a baronial mansion on a huge plantation well on the way to the sea. He had scarcely settled himself for a good rest, a supper, and a sleep when he learned that the home he was in was the palatial and aristocratic residence of Senator Howell Cobb. Sherman immediately ordered his military family and escort off the plantation. By sunrise the next morning, the baronial mansion and every thing pertaining to it were what Marcus Aurelius said the great men of the past were "Smoke, ashes, and a tale."

A prisoner at Andersonville could leave the stockade at any time he chose to do so if he would renounce the United States government and join a mongrel organization called the "Foreign Legion." High homage to the brave men who perished there rather than dishonor themselves, their cause, and their country.

I could write you much more about Andersonville, but, as in the case of other survivors you refer to, I hate the gloomy memories of that Golgotha. I wish to forget them.

CLINT PARKHURST.

Rambling through Nebraska.

BY C. DURANT JONES.

It is within the bounds of possibility that Nebraska may become a great oil producing state, although to this date there are no booms of sufficient magnitude under way to warrant any great influx of speculators. Geologists have made sufficient investigations up in the sandhill country to warrant the belief that the oil is worth going after. One of the sections to be probed, and punctured, lies just west of Bartlett up in Wheeler county. The gentlemen who are fathering the enterprise have faith in it, and are preparing to do some drilling before a great while. While they are enthusiastic over the prospects, yet they are not making this the basis of any stock selling scheme, for there is no stock for sale. They have secured the oil rights on some twenty-five thousand acres and will give the matter a thorough tryout. An honest-to-goodness effort to develop Nebraska's resources constitutes a refreshing change from the financial spree which fed up the people on blue sky stocks of many kinds in the past few years, and left much weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth in its train.

"Pel" Barrows, former lieutenant governor, and governor a good deal of the time, also formerly the Lincoln end of the Omaha Bee, is now safely esconced in the editorial sanctum of the Madison Star-Mail, and will bring to that paper a wealth of experience and editorial ability that bodes much good for it. He has travelled far and near and knows about everybody who is worth knowing. The Star-Mail is a good paper and when Mr. Barrows get acclimated, his impress will be seen on its pages. And we are guessing that he won't have to wait half so long for his pay as he did after filling the governors chair. To our mind, an editorial job on a good paper is better than being lieutenant governor anyway.

The people of Ainsworth have recent had a forcible reminder that the luxuries of a few years ago are the necessities of today. The light plant was destroyed by fire there the morning of May 1st, and the city has been trying to get along with neither light or power. The two rival newspaper, the Democrat and Star-Journal, joined hands in their common distress and issued the two papers from the same office. A ministers' conference which for lack scheduled, was postponed for lack of light, for they are not of the kind who love darkness rather than light. Gasoline engines that were discarded with contempt a few years ago, have been coaxed and petted into functioning in the old way. The bake shop and the mill almost went out of business. Stores that stayed open formerly until late in the evening, agreed upon an early closing, and more attention is being given gardens and lawns than ever before in the same length of time. A hundred years ago, if your tallow dip had been accidentally destroyed, one would have been borrowed from the neighbors an business would have gone on as usual. But Benj. Franklin certainly started something when he played with his kite that rainy day.

Here's where the Rambler takes to riding a bicycle. The legislature has given us a law which says that when an engine number on an automobile has been defaced, it is good evidence that the car has been stolen. Now we had always figured that if someone stole our car, we should get it back again. But if, when we recovered it, it shows that the engine number has been defaced, we can see where we have many a bad half hour explaining to various curious officials the whereof of that mutilated engine number. So hereafter, it's a bicycle for us. In the meantime, we have a car for sale, engine number still in good condition.

A better day for fairs, from the moral standpoint, is dawning in Nebraska, if Vice President George Jackson, of the state board of agriculture, has his way about it. Mr. Jackson is also one of the leading boosters for his local fair at Nelson and is a man of wide fair experience. He has set his foot down in the matter of gambling joints and immoral shows which sometimes creep into county fairs, and says that unless the fairs keep such things out, the day is not far distant when the state will refuse to tax the people for the support of fairs. He believes in the educational value of fairs, as do all other students of agricultural and industrial progress, but he believes that fairs must be kept clean and unobjectionable or their very existence will be jeopardized. Various fair boards have already put the kibosh on anything questionable and the rest will doubtless join in. Mr. Jackson says that there is steady progress in that direction by both the state and county fairs.

The Hastings Chamber of Commerce is determined that the city is going to get some publicity from now on. It is pushing a campaign to induce every auto owner to wear a Hastings name plate on his car. It is also urging the business men to include a Hastings slogan on their stationery. And the campaign is bearing fruit. The new owners of the Democrat, have changed the name from "Adams County Democrat" to "Hastings Democrat." Cities are builded in the same way business are builded. The Chamber of Commerce at Hastings is going right after the proposition and the city is going to be heard from. President Cottingham, of the Chamber, is a live wire and is holding the work of that organization right up to its former high standard.

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Should we rest on past records and demand special favors of life just because we have done our duty in life either as soldiers or as mothers?

Likes The Man.

Dear Minerva: I know you are going to reprimand me for my attitude toward "A Bitter Cynic," but I want to say emphatically that I heartily agree with him. I read your Mail every day and do get so disgusted with some of the letters, especially from men who are broken-hearted over a love affair. I believe there are a few such things too delicate to be discussed in public.

But,—to come to the main idea for which I am writing. The reason I admire "A Bitter Cynic," if his letter portrays his real personality, is because he is my idea of a real "he-man." I hate these "wishy-washy" men, who have no thought of a home, but just run wild and have a swell time while the girls they pick are nearly always the kind who think the life of "always courting and nearly wedding" is ideal.

Personally I think a home and children is the main ambition of a woman's life. I say "is"—I should have said "should be."

I think "A Bitter Cynic" did a very sensible thing in not giving the soldier's letter to the girl. If she had no more "backbone" than to marry a slacker while a real man wanted her, then what could his letter have meant to her? But an assurance that another had lost his heart to her wiles I am sure had my brother who lies buried in France, had had that experience, I should never have wanted his letter delivered. However my other brother left a sweetheart here and came back to find her waiting for him — now they have a home with two tiny tots to bless it.

Don't think from my letter that I am one who has no admirers but seeks them through publicity. I am not. I have been voted the most popular girl in our little city, am considered good looking (not beautiful) and have scores of friends. I have had all kinds of experiences with men of all kinds so I know whereof I speak. I like a "Bitter Cynic, have tasted the cup of love to find it bitter. But even at that, I cannot say that I have lost all faith in men though I must say that a man to be my idea of a man must be a real he-man, who, when he vows to love, honor and cherish, knows that those vows are eternal and not like a car license, to be renewed again with another in a year or so.

Any man who can or does love his mother so devotedly as "A Bitter Cynic" will find a girl who will share that only lasting love and be worthy of it. Here's all success to you, "Bitter Cynic."—JUST TWENTY.

P. S.—women use more strategy in handling situations. Therefore I am quite sure Minerva is a lazy.

A. I certainly shall not reprove you for your allegiance to the opinions of "A Bitter Cynic. "If I had a brother buried in France I too might think that a soldier could do, or think no wrong. Aside from that you have every right to admire the man. I didn't feel that he was being big and fine as we somehow expect our ex-soldiers to be, in his wholesale condemnation of women. His arrogance in believing himself somewhat superhuman, and certainly worlds superior to women, because he had done his duty as a soldier, was quite unlike the soldiers I have known and admired.

I simply feel that he is not qualified to judge womanhood.

Merely Our Duties.

And to "Plato Roth" whose letter likewise defendind "Bitter Cynic" follows, I will say that I fear he was standing at attention with a chip on his shoulder and I bumped into him and knocked it off.

Certainly I have the greatest respect and honor for our soldiers, ex- and otherwise. For that very reason I dislike to see any one of them play for sympathy or for favors on the strength of his war record, or betray an intolerant, holier-than-thou, or braver-than-thou attitude. I'm happy to say this is as unusual as it is un-American.

I've never been a soldier and you've never been a mother. But each in his or her own way has only done his duty as it was demanded of him and it's unlovely to be arrogant or vain-glorious over the fact. Isn't it.

And now, patient readers, having read my "reaction." I'll hand over the well-seasoned letter itself:

Dear Minerva: Calm yourself, my editress. Powder your nose,re-arrange that vagrant wisp of hair, steal a stealthy glance at your mirror, and waft back to earth. Be captainess of your soul. Satire is unlots of cases, didn't give a hang. American. It might be American to boast and jack a golden line of eloquent chatter, but one has to be dipped in the broiling vats of British civilization to be really and truly satirical. We have humor; real humor; spontaneous humor. Our Briton cousin does not possess that saving grace. herefore he oftimes resorts to satire and ridicule.

"A Bitter Cynic" was merely availing himself of a white man's inalienable right to express his opinion. If he hates women there is no law, and there should be no law, to prevent him from doing so. Why should women demand subservience? What Law of God (and His Law is the Law) are we compeled to bow in submission to your whims and fotbles. Why should we stifle and smother our ideas—our true ideas—to conform with the legendary claptrap of poets now dead and decayed?

Each day that I pick up this paper I read of scandals, murders, suicides, divorce proceedings, and what not, and the center and hub of all these things is woman—lovely woman!

I do not hate women. There never lived a normal man on the face of God's earth that hated women. Since creation women have received the approbation of my brutish sex. You speak of old times and how women were held in bondage then but I say to you that the woman of today, the American woman, cluttering the political and business fields as she is with her rather useless presence, does not wield the power that the women of the Hebrew nations wielded four thousand years ago.

When high brows condescend to discuss the status of woman in the past they rummage around and dig up the caveman, or else hark back to some barbarian tribe of people. Occasionally they harp on the Middle Ages, when the human race was at its lowest ebb. But they never turn the spotlight of their scrutiny upon the women of the ancient Hebrew tribes. The Bible, whether you believe it or no, says a greater tribute to womanhood than any other book that was ever written, and the last addition to our sacred Bible was made nearly two thousand years ago.

But in those days we had Ruths and Esthers and Marys. In those days women counted it a glory to accept motherhood. In those days women believed more in God and less in paint and powder and gossamer skirts. You may be brilliant, polished, well educated, thoroughly trained in the niceties of social obligations, versed in art and literature, but yet you are not far enough advanced to ridicule the mothers of the men that laid the foundation of the world's civilization.

If we had Ruths and Esthers and Marys today we'd have a better breed of children, less youthful suicides, fewer Yorks, Genevas, and Kearneys; and no broken homes. The women of today may primp and pose and boast and carry their bluff but Ruth lived hundreds of years ago, and the world saw but one Virgin Mary.

The above is apropos of "A Bitter Cynic's" letter. His letter was an insult to you. You heaped contumely upon his head because he was not weak enough to declaim his undying devotion to a faithless and wretched creature that didn't have the womanhoo to play fair.

What do you want a man to do for a woman Or rather, why should a man sacrifice his happiness for one silly woman when he can get another without making undue sacrifices? Is a woman so pure and saintly that she can reform a man (all men, according to the public opinion, are hopelessly lost) and tow him to the gates of Paradise without him relying upon the Greater Force? And just because a man is born of woman should he bow in abject servility to ALL women That seems to be your idea.

"Bitter Cynic" made one mistake—one error—one glorious miscue. He recalled the hectic days of '18. He spoke of battle fields. He voiced the sentiment that was paramount in the minds of many of the lads that were fighting to make this wicked and rotten old world safe for a democracy that we yet do not understand. Of course you don't know anything about it. You're a woman. You don't understand. You just wonder. And maybe you don't care. The war is over now. Nobody cares. I don't care myself. Although a lot of us cared in '18, or pretended to care.

I am not condemning you for holding lightly the things we tried to do in France. We did our best and got scant credit for it. In making light of our negligible achievements you are merely bowing your noble cranium to public opinion. Nobody but our mothers care anything about us, the vets of the World war. Even our wives and sweethearts, in But we don't lament. At least I don't. Another war is coming. Maybe a few of the slacking saints will get their chance in the next one. I hope so.

Wives and sweethearts did stab some of the boys in the back while they were floundering about searching for a lil' green tent in Flanders. You may throw up your hands in holy horror and wear out a typewriter ribbon in trying to explain that I am a liar, but if you do it will be because you don't know anything about it. Human interest stories were smothered during that period. The boobs that wrote war stuff, the boobs that weren't in the thick of it, wrote a lot of silly "goodbye Dolly Gray" stuff and clap-trap like that, but if they'd lifted the cover and delved deep into the affairs of some of these poor devils even Elinor Glyn would have been shocked.

Yet I do not hate women. So far I have been able to master the few women that cross my ken intimately. So long as a man is able to master these fragrant "unconquerable" women he can't very well hate them. He can hold some of them in contempt, despise them for their ultravanities and silliness but he doesn't actually hate them.

There was a time, when I realized that a batch of filthy, yellow-souled cowardly draft dodgers and slackers were hanging back in America to entertain our wives and sweethearts, that I fancied that I could hate women. But what's the use? It is wicked and sinful and depraved to hate your delectable sex, isn't it? Although the actions of some of you are enough to incur the wrath of God.

Had I been in "Bitter Cynic's" place when he told that jade about her lover that died in France that such as she might enjoy alleged democracy, and she turned me the answer that she turned him, I would have upbraided her roundly. If that slacker husband of hers (the cur) had opened his mouth I would have knocked him down and stepped in his face. Any ex-Yank can whip a cake-eating slacker.

But why raise Cain? It doesn't do any good. Take the cake-fed college athlete who never knew danger beyond the football field or the cinder path. Women wade through what's its name for him and if a war yet happens along he gets a horse laugh. A paroled convict out of Lancaster is accorded more recognition, sympathy, and help than we are. Turn a murderer out of the pen tomorrow and a dozen female organizations will chase around in hectic circles looking for a position to give him. But if one of us should even whisper that we served a few months in France they yelp back at you, "Well, you got paid for it, didn't you?" Yep, one buck a day with thirty cents extra for foreign service. The slacker got ten bucks a day and our sweethearts. But I don't blame the slacker about the women. I blame the women. A man can't steal another man's wife if she doesn't bait the trap.

Another thing Minerva, motherhood is a duty that every woman owes the world for having lived in it. In your answer to "Bitter Cynic" you childishly fell back upon that argument. You even said something about the debt he owed his own mother for the fact that he has life. Motherhood isn't a boast, it's a duty. A woman hasn't accomplished a thing on earth until she becomes a mother. That is her bounden mission. Highbrows, intellectuals, soothsayers, and mockers may dispute this, but they cannot prove its falsity. Business, politics literature, science, everything excepting the cinema world and the stage can stagger along fairly well without women. But a home cannot. Home means mother. A home without a mother—without children—is merely an abiding place. A childless married woman is incapable of making a happy home. So why boast vain gloriously about a thing that you must do to keep the laws of God. In the olden days, the days you despise, women were wont to praise God at childbirth. Today they want God to praise them.

No doubt you will toss this letter into the waste paper basket with a sneer. It's a crank letter, I suppose But don't form the idea in your head that I am a woman hater. You women don't like to be hated. The attentions we bestow upon you flatter you. You like for us to bow in abject submission to you. Every woman young enough to feel the thrill of romance longs for a man whom she can handle and boss and abuse as George McManus has Maggie do Jiggs. That is why McManus is so successful. He wa clever enough to know that a woman wants a man to be a dog instead of a man.

In my last paragraph I humbly apologize to you if I've insulted your Highness. But it provokes me to hear someone who wasn't there, or near there, or connected with it in some way, be it man or woman, poke ridicule at the poor devils that ate corn willie and German gas for the sake of a democracy that hasn't been delivered yet. In this column it is alright to discuss marriage the way of a man with a maid, or lovers' spats, useless flappers, the divorce question, and how to snare a man, but for the sake of decency lay off this war stuff unless you were there. —PLATO ROTH, (ex-sergeant A. E. F.)

Youth Accountable.

Dear Minerva: I have been keeping company with a young man for over a year, although he is two years younger than I. At first when I dated with him I didn't care much for his company although I liked to date at times. After a year's company with him I began to learn his ways and understand his disposition better. He seemed pleasant but I always thought him to be so much different from other friends I kept company with. He often talks as to what he is going to do in the future, as to a position, but is so fickle as to what he really likes. Minerva please give me your opinion as to this type of man.—BLONDY.

A. His youth doubtless counts for his seeming lack of decision and steadiness. After he has looked around a bit more, he will probably settle down to some one thing. Exploration in various fields of endeavor is one form of education to the young, and with so many attractive vocations open to men of today, it is little wonder that a decision as to where to alight is difficult.

A Cheering Poem.

Dear Minerva: In reading your Mail I learn of so many people having such hard times, so I thought I would send this little poem that I wrote and perhaps you could find space enough to put it is.—E. K.

Cheer Up.

This old world we're livin' in is mighty, mighty sweet
From every little flower that grows clear down to cousin Pete.
Then why are people always fretting' and sayin' "Oh dear?"
When it's they themselves a'makin things all dark and drear.
Why, we should be so happy and a
singin' all the day,—
Count our trials and tribulations
nothin' but all play.
We should sorta keep our feelins'
hid clear from our sight,
And then just set to laughin', and laugh with all our might.
So to them that's feelin' gloomy and gloomy all the while
I hope this little jingle will make you folks just smile.

Lincoln Campfire Girls Prepare to Spend Summer Among Nature's Settings at Kiwanis Club Camp

Camp it sounds so good to me,
Camp so full of rivalry,
Lots of fun and plenty of pep,
We'll all be there,
So prepare the bill of fare,
Camp, it means so much to me,
Kiwanis camp for me,
Teaches us to wash the dishes,
And work hard for all our wishes,
Camp, the life for me.

Have you known the joys of camping together? Have you slept under the stars, blazed new trails, cooked in the open and climbed to a hill top at sunset? Have you awakened eagerly to greet each new day, wondering only of the new gifts that will unfold? Have you learned the keen joy of comradeship, found only in the out of doors? If you have, you'll find your way back. If you haven't, go to Kiwanis camp!

Kiwanis camp of the Camp Fire girls has definite aims and a definite program. If offers to every girl the opportunity to know more of the out of doors, to participate in the varius camp activities, and under supervision develop a wholesome comradeship with other girls. Thoughtful fathers and mothers throughout the country are regarding camps as an education rather than a luxury.

Built upon a splendid program of the Camp Fire girls, Kiwanis camp on the Blue river, at Milford offers a vacation at a nominal cost.

The program this summer is to be under the direction of Miss Lola Duncan, Lincoln Camp Fire executive, as camp director, and Mrs. Eusebia Thompson of Manhattan, Kans., as camp mother.

The girls who have gone to Kiwanis during previous summers know of the joys which it has to offer. The program this year will offer the same delightful swimming, boating, and canoeing as in previous seasons. There will be lovely new scarlet felt emblems to be worn on the swimming suits, showing the ranks attained in swimming. Elaborate precautions will be taken this year, as always, to guarantee the safety of the water program.

The program this year will offer a great many new activities. The aim will be to make camp life as different from life in town as possible. The motto will be: "Do nothing in camp that can be done better at home."

This is to be especially true of the hand craft. The girls will make pottery, digging the native clay and preparing it themselves, finally making and designing their own articles of pottery.

The carving of totem staffs will also be an interesting feature. The girls will carve their personal symbols, camp symbols and symbols of achievement, finally dyeing the staff in beautiful colors.

There will also be a class in camp craft and wood craft which promises to be most fascinating. This is something that has never been offered at camp before. It will include out door cooking, fire by friction, tracking and trailing, the building of various kinds of out door fires, the making of cooking devices, sun dials, out door ovens, steak broilers, bed for over night hikes, and so on. The aim of this course will be to teach the girls to take care of themselves every bit as happily, safely and comfortably out of doors as in doors.

Advance canoeing will be offered girls who remain for two weeks or more. There will also be special hand craft classes and long trips up the river for these girls.

Nature lore will be taught in an absolutely new and fascinating manner this year. The girls will collect objects for a nature museum and will make interesting field trips.

A lovely surprise or adventure will be planned each week for the girls the details to be kept absolutely secret and the adventure changing from week to week.

All Lincoln girls are welcome at this camp whether they are Camp Fire girls or not.

The camp committee has almost completed its selection of a corps of councilors for the summer. They feel that they have been most fortunate in securing an unusually expert type of leadership. The following girls are those who have already been chosen for the position of councilors at Kiwanis camp:

Elizabeth Jones, Bessie Stansbury, Bertha Fishbach, Lois Pedersen, Virginia Harris, June Bishop, Mary E. White, Jessie Cutler, Frances Newens, Martha E. Curtis, Margaret Hager, Dorothy Williams, Elizabeth Wilcox, Mrs. G. H. Lemon, Alice Mae Longnecker, Helen Robb, Josephine W. Shramek, and Daisy Graves.

Life at Kiwanis camp on the Blue, which will open its doors in a very few weeks to its hosts of bloomer and white-middy-clad girls, is just one grand bit of fun after another. The life there is a happy care free existence, with days filled to overflowing with boating, swimming, hikes and craft work

The picture at the top gives a glimpse into a room where an industrious group is devoting a part of the day to crafts work. In the center is another group preparing breakfast while on its early morning hike. The picture below gives a wonderful view of the river and the girls on a canoeing party.

Careful, But Simple, Planning of Home Garden Will Produce Result Well Worth the Effort

Spring has come.

Frayed winter linings, robins, home gardeners, and the wanderlust tell the tale. Of these, the most potent sign is the gardener. Frosts can not kill nor cold breezes chill his wonderful ardor.

Every evening he is out, spading the ground, smoothing it with infinite care, indulging meanwhile in rosy dreams of bliss of the way it will appear in July. He putters around, wondering just what to put in this row and how the zinnias will look in this bed. Would the cockscomb kill the colors in the sweet peas? Would—but a million questions come to him.

Every year, the same old questions. Always the same old doubts for him who has not taken time and planning by the fetlock. Always time lost in trying to make things look well—with the usual result of a heterogeneous display of color and size, one killing the other and shutting the smaller from view with a towering plant.

It's not too late, even now, to give even the simplest home garden a lovely appearance and to make it the perpetual joy that it should be. A little time, a very little, and a little more thought is the recipe for the "garden beautiful." As an architect draws plans for a house, or a landscape gardener draws plans for his stately gardens, draw plans for the back yard garden.

Planning Really Simple.

Such planning is not difficult, and the result is worth the little concentration necessary. Of course, everything must be drawn to scale, but most any man is that clever with pencil and ruler. After acquiring the necessary paper, pencil, and ruler, decide upon the scale upon which it is to be drawn, not too large for the small garden to make the different objects seem disproportionate to their natural size.

In the first place, draw a square for the house on the paper in the location that it stand in the yard. Label each object, or the purpose of the plat is lost. Then put in the garage, barn, or chickencoop—any or all of them which you may be blessed or afflicted with. Squares do nicely for all buildings.

Following this, draw in the walks to the house or any special paths that you have for the garden. Indicate the flower beds that you have, already containing perennials, or any that you intend to make this year. The trees must have their place on the plat, for many a good garden is spoiled by a misplaced tree. Fences, lawn furniture, yard swings—any thing that is in the should be drawn upon the plat. With the fixtures of the lawn in place, garden planning becomes a fascinating pastime.

Color Clashes Avoided.

When you have planted poppies in reality and find that the space just in front of them is best adapted for sweet peas, it is rather difficult to dig up the poppies and carry them across the garden to a new resting spot. Nor is it very easy to one's vision to gaze upon a bed of soft colored iris, flanked with yellow marigolds or a red, red rose. It is rather hard to peer over the cosmos to see a lowly bed of phlox—but it happens.

He who plans, though, meets no such difficulties. On his paper, he has laid out the space for the sweet peas, the poppies, the iris, the sweet William, and the red, red rose. No peering through the leaves of one to find the beauty of the other. No shrieking reds backed by brilliant yellows in his garden. No orange ranging back of pale periwinkle.

He has planned, and he avoids discords in his garden, as he does in his daily life. With the high flowers in the back, he graduates them down to the lowliest in front and separates, one from the other, the colors that can not blend. Nor is his garden over-crowded. The paper has shown him just how much space he has, how much he needs to work there, and he has allowed for the proper amounts.

His garden is a picture in artistic perfection, a drawing in artistic technique.

Women Golfers Meet In State Tourney June 18

Monday June 18 has been chosen as the opening day of the Nebraska Women's State Golf tournament which will be held at the Field club of Omaha. Mrs. Ray Elliott, third vice-president of the state association of women golfers, attended a meeting of the executive committee in Omaha on Friday and at this time the date of the tournament was decided upon. Mrs. Ross P. Curtice was named to serve on the rules committee with Mrs. Blanche Young and Mrs. Walter Silver of Omaha. Announcement was also made at the executive meeting that the Field club would hold open day for the women golfers of the state on June 1.

June 18 is not so far away and it behooves Lincoln's women golfers to get busy. The weather man has not contributed the very best of golf weather this spring and with the move from the old to the new country club golf plans have been upset but the future looks very bright.

The new course is progressing splendidly and permanent greens are soon to be in use. Play during the early spring has been from the temporary greens. Mrs. W. E. Hardy was elected chairman of the women's golf at the Country club for this season with Mrs. Dee Eiche as assistant chairman but since Mrs. Hardy will be away during the greater part of the summer the work of the chairman has descended upon Mrs. Eiche.

The formal opening of the club is usually a forerunner of the opening of the golf season and within a short time the links will be dotted with enthusiastic players in the most attractive of feminine golf togs.

New Honorary Fraternity Is Installed Here

Mu chapter of Gamma Epsilon Pi, national fraternity for women maporing in business administration, was installed at Nebraska last Monday. The following members were initiated: Misses Nancy Pennoyer, Eleanor Dunlap, Grace Dobish, Janet McLellan and Mildred Jensen.

Each candidate must have an average of eighty-five per cent or over for all her previous university work.

Lavender and white asters were combined in the decorations of the small dinner tables of seven and eight places each with covers for sixty-five including club members and their guests. A four course dinner was served. Following the dinner a charming program of music, readings and dancing was given by club members in the Hardy village whose lovely arrangement of beautifully furnished bungalows with their flower bedecked piazzas made a short attractive setting.

Miss Jude Deyo sang a group of seven songs. Miss Deyo's lovely dramatic contralto voice was heard to splendid advantage, and her numbers were greatly appreciated by enthusiastic hearers. Marguerite Klinker was the accompanist and through her artistic accompaniments added to the attractiveness of the program. Miss Deyo's numbers were "Sapphic Ode," by Brahms; "Spring Night" by Schumann; "Oh Mother Mine" by Sinding; "Over the Steppe," by Gretchaninoff; "Mistletoe" by Crist; "Confession" by Campbell-Tipton and "Life" by Curran.

Myra Murry who has been in Lincoln only since last fall but in that short time has made a name for herself in her dramatic work read Sir Barrie's "Twelve Pound Look." The reading was delightful and ended all too soon.

Marjorie Barstow contributed the dancing number of the program. She was dressed in a lovely yellow flowered silk gown with side panniers fashioned in colonial style with lace underskirt. She danced a charming colonial toe dance. Miss Klinker was also the accompanist for the dance.

Even one pimple can ruin your looks. S.S.S. stops pimples!

A beautiful complexion is born in your blood. It also dies there, if you let it. Blood that is rich in Blood-Cells is pure. It shows its purity through the skin.

When one pimple comes out on your face, you can be almost certain that there are more to follow. It also means that impurities are accumulating in your blood to make your complexion worse instead of better. Face creams will not solve the trouble. There is always one quick and sure way to make your complexion free from all eruptions, pimples, blackheads and muddiness by building up the skin-purifying "machinery" which is in your blood. That is by building up your red-blood-cells. S. S. S. is admitted to be the leader among skin beautifiers. Rich blood, rosy face. Poor blood, "muddy" face. There are thousands of women who wonder why their complexions do not improve in spite of all the face treatments they use. They should not continue to wonder. Increase your blood-cells,—that is the only answer. Use S. S. S.—that is the other answer. S. S. S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. It is also a remarkable builder of firm flesh, which is also important to beauty. It will fill out your hollow cheeks, put the "ruby" of health in your cheeks, and the sparkle in your eyes. It is all done by building blood-cells. S. S. S. does it.

You will be startled how quickly and thoroughly you can stop skin eruptions and beautify your complexion with S.S.S.

Miss Ethel Rose, 422 E. Water St., Painted Post, N. Y., writes: "I followed your advice in regard to S. S. S., and am pleased to state that I have been greatly benefited by it. All that has been said in favor of S. S. S. I have found to be true as applied to my case, as it has certainly purified my system and my complexion is now clear. As you know, my trouble was pimples on the face, neck and chest."

Since 1826 S. S. S. has been beautifying complexions, and giving women physical charm,—all through one great secret, the blood-cell. S. S. S. is known and accepted as one of the greatest of all body-cleansers and blood-builders. Try it if you have pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and skin eruptions. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

University Place Mother Has Eleven Sons and One Daughter

Second row: Lewis, Edwin, Dan, Dorothy, Jim, Harvey, John.

Seated: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Manners.

One wonders if there is a special heaven for mothers who have reared eleven, good, stalwart sons, and one charming daughter. If there is, Mrs. J. W. Manners of University Place is sure of a place there for that is just what she has done.

Mrs. Manners was the mother of seventeen children, two of them died in infancy, one died five days after birth, another lived to be two and one-half years of age, and the fifth died at nine years of age. The eleven sons and one daughter are left. Three of the children who are dead were boys, and two of them girls.

Mrs. Manners will be seventy-three years of age her next birthday. She was married when she was fifteen years of age, and had five sons when she was twenty-one years of age.

It wasn't an easy task, raising all of those children and seeing that they were given the proper care and environment,' said Mrs. Manners, "but now that it is over I wouldn't have had it any other way. I take so much comfort with my children, they are all so good to me. I see other people without children at my age and they seem so lonely.

"There are not the mothers today that there were years ago. The girls would rather read and do other things than to take care of children. Their children are a nuisance and it is getting to be so that there are no children at all.

"Of course it was easier to take care of children when mine were small than it is now. I really don't see how a mother could raise so many of them and have them all good these days, for there are so many diversions away from home. We lived on a farm when my children were little, and they could be out of doors all of the time and I would know that there were never away from home.

"It would sound like a stampede when they all come in at meal time, caps here and there and everywhere, a scramble to get to the table, and a scramble to get away again. If there had been eleven girls I don't believe I could have stood it, for they would have been around all of the time.

"I worried more about my one girl when she was between fourteen and seventeen and even when she was older than I did about all my boys at any time. I was always afraid something was going to happen to her. If she was a little late, was sure that she had met with an accident, and I worried continuously. But my boys, I felt, could take care of themselves."

Mr. and Mrs. Manners have lived in University Place ten years, moving there from a farm near Alvo. Mr. Menners is eighty but makes his own gardens and is as spry as can be.

There were twelve children in Mrs. Manners family, and eleven children in Mr. Manners' family, so that both of them were accustomed to the noise and hustle and bustle caused by growing-up kiddies.

Saturday, the little folks of the gymnasium department met for a picnic. After games and a general good time the children enjoyed lunch together. John Upson was a special guest for the outing.

For some years groups of high school and Y. W. C. A. club girls have attended conferences at Camp Okoboji, June 26 to July 6 is the time for the high school girls. The federation will send their delegates July 7 to 21. Many improvements have been made at Camp Okoboji, the most important one being a new steel water tower.

The association as a whole is usually represented at Lake Geneva for the city conference. The date for this year is August 7 to 17. Speakers of national repute will give lectures and lead classes. At this time the mystery of "The Bat" will be revealed.

"It improved the condition of every one who was constipated"

Recent experiments explain action of Fleischmann's Yeast in relieving this common complaint

In three great scientific laboratories and hospitals, recent experiments were made on over 100 persons — to test the effects of Fleischmann's Yeast on constipation.

It was found that the yeast mixes with the highly-nutritious, concentrated foods which form most of our modern diet, softening them and increasing their bulk. This greater bulk gently encourages the intestinal muscles to act, and at the same time strengthens them by offering just the resistance they need.

That is why, according to the recently-issued report of these tests, Fleischmann's Yeast "improved the condition of every one who had any degree of constipation." It simply assists Nature to restore normal, healthy conditions. Hundreds of thousands of men and women are eating Fleischmann's Yeast today. Physicians and hospitals are prescribing it in place of the dangerous drugs and cathartics which weaken the intestinal muscles and so actually increase the trouble.

Your own physician will heartily endorse this principle of treating constipation by gently encouraging the intestinal muscles to act for themselves.

Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast—yeast in its natural fresh form. Recent experiments have shown that yeast corrects constipation only when its cells are alive and active, and that it loses its laxative effect when these cells are "killed" and dried.

Eat at least 2 or 3 cakes a day—plain or dissolved in water, milk, or fruit juices—preferably half an hour before a meal, or the last thing at night.

Get several cakes at a time—they will keep in a cool, dry place for several days. Be sure you get Fleischmann's Yeast. All grocers have it. Send for free booklet, "The New Found Value of Fleischmann's Yeast in Building Health." The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

"Though 58 I am feeling like a boy of 20"

"For the last four years I had been suffering constantly with indigestion," writes a broker from Havana. "I could not go to the club at night. I had to give up all my pleasures. But since a friend of mine recommended to me to try Fleischmann's Yeast, I am back again on the same old footing. Though 58 years old I am feeling as if I were only 20—thanks to Fleischmann's Yeast."

Who's Who in Lincoln

Miss Margaret Lewis

Miss Margaret Lewis, the well known saleswoman of George Brothers' store, has been employed there for twenty years.

Miss Lewis began business life as a teacher and after having taught two years and during her summer vacation she applied for work in this store which was then a very small concern. She was given simple employment and at the end of the summer she did not go back to her school but was retained by the firm, and step by step learned the business where she is now one of the most highly valued employes.

Among other things she learned to set type, holding to this work for four years, and now she finds this experience of great value when she is selling printing to a customer, as she is able to talk intelligently on this subject. In fact, there is no part of this big store that has not belonged to her catechism. At present she is in charge of the Gift Shop.

Miss Lewis was one of the organizers of the Axis club and was its first president. It was during her administration that Lincoln was given an opportunity to hear Irvin Cobb and the Thurlow Lieurance concert. Both of these were a success in every way. The young business club realized a neat sum for its treasury.

Miss Lewis has been vice president of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs during 1921. She is always ready to assist in organizing clubs over the state.

She was one of the two members of the committee that transformed the vacant lot east of George Brothers' store from a patch of weeds into the beautiful spot it was last summer and promises to be this summer.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

BELMONT MOTHERS' CLUB HOLDS LAST MEETING.

The last meeting on the Belmont Mothers' club was held Friday afternoon at the school house. Upon assembling each member wrote her name on a slip of paper, and the slips, with a few apropriate remarks were placed in a jar and buried at the roots of one of the two beautiful Colorado spruce trees which were planted in the school yard. The trees were planted by C. H. Bull, a G. A. R. man, and thep rocession from the building to the school yard was led by Mr. Bull and Mrs. Anna Estes, retiring president of the club. On either side of them was a boy bearing a silk flag. The school children and visitors were grouped around the trees, and following the reading of a poem, "The Planting of the Tree," by Miss Mary Magee, fifth grade teacher, America was sung.

After the tree planting the members of the club held a business meeting, and a quilt which had been pieced by the club members during the past two or three weeks was presented to Mrs. Estes, who in turn, although graciously appreciating the gift, asked that it be kept by the club and sold, the money to be used for community purposes.

A Mothers' Day program was held, and a talk, "To Mothers," was given by Rev. Mrs. R. Robb. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served.

The spruce trees will beused for community Christmas trees.

CAPITOL BEACH OPENS SUNDAY

Summer Season of "Playground of Middle West" Is Inaugurated.

Fireworks and Band Concert Scheduled—Many Improvements During Winter.

Capital Beach, known as the "Playground of the Middle West" opens Sunday, May 13, for the summer season, with $35,000 in improvements.

An exhibition of fire works by the Pan-American and a two hour concert, from 6 to 8 p. m., by the Nebraska State band will be features of the Sunday opening. A free vaudeville program three times every day, at 3 p. m., 8 p. m., and 10 p. m., will be presented during the entire season.

Around the bathing beach a number of new bath houses have been erected, greatly increasing the facilities there. A new water supply has also been provided with a 5,000 gallon tank for storage.

Improvements about the beach include 500 new trees and thousands of flowering shrubs. New cement walks, a new giant ferris wheel and a new caterpiller ride, which is said to have been a sensation at eastern resorts, have been installed.

The gates this year will be open free until 5 p. m. week days and 1 p. m. Sundays, an admission of ten cents to be charged after that hour. Tickets may be purchased in books at a price considerably less.

AT THE THEATRES.

The Liberty Closes This Week With Two Excellent Programs.

Manager Garman announces that the Liberty will close its most successful season this week with two splendid bills. The first half of the week Gladys Delmar and Boys, a syncopated sextette of versatile entertainers will headline the program which includes the peer of blackfaced funsters, George and Paul Hickman, the acme of sensationalism presented by Page, Hack and Mack; the character comedian, Frank Farron, a dealer in laughs; Jack Bell, Jr. understudy of the famous black-faced comedian, Eddie Cantor, assisted by Dorothy Van in his latest song successes; "The Devil's Foot" a new adventure by Sherlock Holmes, comedy and News pictures. Coming the last half of the week, starting Thursday matinee, The Seven Flashes, a septette of clever artists presenting a satire on "School Days"; Steppe and O'Neal, character comedians that never fails to convulse their audience with laughter; Gene Jerome & Suzanne France, youngest American Opera Singers in vaudeville, featuring piano and cello solos; The Four of Us, the best of male quartettes and delineators of popular melodies; Fulton and Mack, America's Society Athletes, "The Oregon Trail," a historic chapter play, comedy and News pictures.

Music by Babich and his prize orchestra.

ON THE SCREEN.

Mae Murray in "Jazzmania" at the Lyric this Week.

If you have witnessed Mae Murray's recent photoplays, "Peacock Alley," "Fascination," and "Broadway Rose," you will need no argument whatever to make you decide to see her latest, 'Jazzmania." This new photoplay is by far the best she has done. In sumptuous backgrounds, in gorgeous costumes and feminine finery, in romantic interest and in its spectacular appeal, "Jazzmania" is simply astounding. It gives the beautiful star the most wonderful opportunities of her career. Her acting at all times is as colorful as her personality. Interesting topical subjects and the prologue "The Court of Jazz." Music by the Lyric Orchestra and the Marjorie Little Trio.

"The Isle of Lost Ships" and "Fighting Blood" at the Colonial this Week.

Maurice Tourneur's remarkable production "The Isle of Lost Ships," a tale that leaps beyond the frontiers of imagination and carries you dramabound to the Weird Sargasso Sea. The story tells of a floating island of derelict vessels locked in a tangle of seaweed, with a strange population, ruled by a giant brute. Such is the setting for the most unusual picture of the year, the novelty melodrama of a decade. A tale of pirategold, and love, of adventure, romance, daring that makes you forget you've grown up. The cast is one of unusual strength, including as it does Milton Sills, Frank Campeau, Walter Long and Anna Q. Nilsson. The Seventh round of H. C. Witwer's famous Collier Weekly stories, "Fighting Blood" and Kinograms of interest. A special program will be rendered by J. C. Norman Richards.

George Melford's Impressive Production "Java Head" at the Rialto.

From the scented Orient he brought her, an exquisite flower of Chinese loveliness, and expected her to feel at home among the drab snobbery of a New England seaport town. Could you blame her starved heart for yearning for love? Could you forgive the amazing thing she did? See "Java Head," a sumptuous picturization of Hergesheimer's famous novel, which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. It ranks among the two or three best pictures of the year. A drama of red love and blue blood, with this brilliant cast, Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, Raymond Hatton, George Fawcett and Albert Roscoe. Entertaining short subjects and the prologue "A Chinese Fantasy," with an interpretative musical program rendered by the Rialto Symphony Players.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Can you tell me if Jacqueline Logan and May McAvoy are related? I think they look enough alike to be sisters. And will you please send me a picture of either or both. FAN.

I have never heard of any relationship existing between Jacqueline and May. They are not sister, but I will admit that there is a very serong resemblance existing between thm, at least on the screen. I was fortunate enough to have a picture of Miss Logan, which I have mailed you.

Dear Movie Editor—Please tell me how to pronounce Thomas Meighan's last name and Bebe Daniel's first name Tell me where the accent is given in Mae Murray's name.

Please tell me all the shows Laurette Taylor has played in Lincoln, and if she is married and to whom.

And please tell me the weight, height, age, color of hair and eyes of Mahlon Hamilton, and the names of all of his pictures. Yours truly, TEN YEARS OLD.

Leave the "G" out of Mr. Meighan's name and pronounce it with a long "E" and short "A." Accent on the first syllable. Bebe's name is pronounced as it it is spelled with the "E" long. Accent Mae's name on the first syllable.

Miss Taylor has played in only one picture in Lincoln, "Peg O' My Heart." It's her first and only picture to date. She is the wife of J. Hartley Manners, who was responsible for the stage play, "Peg O' My Heart," which Laureatte Taylor has made famous both on the stage and in pictures.

Mahlon Hamilton was born in 1882 with light brown hair and blue eyes. He is six feet tall and weighs 185. His pictures are too numerous to give all of them, but some of his most important are: The Hidden Hand; The Danger Mark; The Death Dance; Daddy Longlegs; The Dead-lier Sex; The Third Generation; Earthbound; Half a Chance; That Girl Montana; The Truant Husband, and, I Am Guilty.

Dear Movie Editor—Can you please tell me about Clarine Seymour. The color of her hair and eyes, height, weight, was she married what was her address and how old was she when she died? Do you know where I can get a picture of her, for I would like to have one so badly.

I would like to have the cast of "The Girl Who Stayed At Home," "True Heart Susie" and "Scarlet Days." Did Clarine die in 1921? Thank you very much. NELLIE LUCILE.

Clarine was born in 1895 and died April 25, 1920. Figure it out for yourself. She had black hair and eyes, was five feet and one inch tall and weighed just a hundred pounds. Her address was 12 Thomas Place, New Rochelle, N. Y., or rather, that is where her parents lived. You might get a picture by writing there for it. I know of no other way you could get it. She was single, but was engaged to be married to William Emmerich, a New York manufacturer.

The cast for "Scarlet Days" is: Alvarez, Richard Barthelmess; Chiquita, Clarine Seymour; Rosy Nell, Eugenie Besserer; Her Daughter, Carol Dempster; John Randolph, Ralph Graves; King Bagley; Walter Long; The Sheriff, George Fawcett; The Aunt, Kate Bruce; Spasm Sal, Rhea Haines; Randolph's Partner; Adolph Lestina; The Marshal, Herbert Sutch; Alvarez's Man, J. Wesley Warner.

Hhe "Girl Who Stayed at Home" cast is: Monsieur LeFrance, Adolphe Lestina; Mademoiselle Blossom, Carol Dempster; The Chum, Frances Parer; Ralph Grey, Richard Barthelmess; Count De Brissac, Syn De Conde; Jim Grey, Robert Harron; The Elder Grey, George Fawcett; Jim's Mother, Kate Bruce; The Turnverein Terror, Edward Pell; Cutie Beautiful, Clarine Seymour; Cutie's Old Friend, Tully Marshall; August Kant, David Butler.

"True Heart Susie" cast follows: Susie May Trueheart, Lillian Gish; Her Aunt, Loyola O'Connor; William Jenkins, Robert Harron; His Father, Walter High; Betty Hopkins, Clarine Seymour; Her Aunt, Kate Bruce; Sporty Malone, Raymond Cannon.

Dear Movie Editor—I'm here again with some more questions, and I'm hoping they will be answered as quickly as possible, for I thought I would wait a week before I wrote to yiu again, and believe me, it was longer than waiting for the Fourth of July.

Now I'll ask the questions. Can you give me the cast for "Omar, the Tentmaker? I don't know whether you can give me the cast for "The Woman Untamed" but if you can, give it to me.

How old is Herbert Rawlinson? Is he married and to whom? What part did he play in "Cheated Hearts?" Who played the part of the Arab girl whom he saved?

How long ago was "Forbidden Valley" released, and who played the part of "Crazy Dave," and "Cal Mitchell?"

Can you tell me who played the part of "Tarzan in "Tarzan of the Apes?"

Please give me the cast of "Dr. Jim" starring Frank Mayo.

How old is Harold Goodwin? Who played the part of his sister in "Tracked to Earth," and who was the ranch foreman?

Is Marie Prevost any relation to the French Canadian trapper who discovered South Pass in the Rocky Mountains?

"Who played the part of "Evangeline" in the picture, "Evangeline"? Thanking you for the space, I remain. Your Inquisitive Friend, ARTHUR, Elk Creek, Neb.

I'm glad that you like to write to me so well. I always enjoy receiving your letters.

The "Omar the Tentmaer" cast is: Omar, the Tentmaker, Guy Bates Post; Shireen, Virginia Brown Faire; Nizam de Mulk, Nigel de Bruliere; The Shah of Shahs, Noah Beery; Shah's Mother, Rose Dione; Little Shireen, Patsy Ruth Miller; Hassan, Douglas Gerrard; Little Mahruss, Will Jim Hatton; Imam Nowaffak, Boris Karloff; The Christion Crusader, Maurice Flynn; Omar's Father, Edward M. Kimball; The Executioner, Walter Long; Zarah, Evelyn Selbie; Mahruss, John Gribner; Emissaries to the Shah," Gordon Mullen and George Rigas.

You guessed right—I have no cast for "The Woman Untamed." I have almost every other kind of a "Woman" however.

Herbert Rawlinson is thirty-eight. He has been married but is separated from his wife. He played the role of Barry Gordon in "Cheated Hearts." Anna Lehr was "Naomi," and Marjorie Daw had the leading feminine role of Muriel Beekman.

"Forbidden Valley" was released in February, 1920. William R. Dunn was "Crazy Dave," and Emil Mink played "Sal Mitchell."

Elmo Lincoln was "Tarzan" in "Tarzan of the Apes."

The cast for "Dr. Jim" is: Dr. Jim Keene, Frank Mayo; Helen Keene, Claire Windsor; Kenneth Ford, Oliver Cross; Bobby Thorne, Stanhope Wheatcroft; Tom Anderson, Robert Anderson; Captain Blake Herbert Heyes; Assistant Doctor, Gordon Sackville.

Harold Goodwin is only twenty-one years old. Virginia Vaill was "Anna Jones" in "Tracked to Earth," Frank Mayo had the leading role of "Charles Crancer," and Arthur Millet was "Big Bill" Angus.

Marie doesn't mention any relationship to the French Canadian trapper.

Miriam Cooper was "Evangeline" in the picture by that name.

Screen Siftings

Rupert of Hentzau," which has been talked of as a million dollar production, but which Myron Selznick, the producer, modestly claims under $500,000, has been completed and is already for distribution The picture is a screen adaptation of Anthony Hope's novel of the same name. The cast includes such stars as Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Claire Windsor, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw. Robart Bosworth, Irving Cummings, Mitchell Lews, Elmo Lincoln and Nigel de Brulier.

Norma Talmadge, accompanied by a caravan of eighteen trucks, containing equipment and members of the cast, has been filming scenes for "Ashes of Vengeance," on the Mathewson ranch, fifty miles from Los Angeles. The Battle of Jarnac, which led up to the massacre of the Huguenots in the reign of Charles IX of France, will be staged on the ranch. A cluster of buildings of the 16th century French design has been rected for the scenes of the picture. Those supporting Miss Talmadge in "Ashes of Vengeance" are: Conway Tearle, Wallace Beery, Josephone Crowell, Claire McPowel, Winter Hall, and a host of others of equal importance. It is said to be one of the largest casts ever assembled for a Norma Talmadge picture.

Lloyd Hamilton, the comedian, has the biggest head in pictures. His head requires a hat size, seven and five-eighths. Because it is hard to find hats to fit his head, Mr. Hamilton has used a cap several sizes too small for him—In his comedites, knowing that everybody with a large head would appreciate the humor. The cap is an essential part of his characterization—a sort of Hamilton trademark, like Harold Lloyd's horn-rimmed spectacles and Charlie Chaplin's shoes and mustache.

With the signing of Anders Randolf for the role of Captain Jack Scott, in "The Master of Woman," Reginald Barker has completed his cast for the production. Mr. Randolf played in "Mighty Lak a Rose," and "The Bright Shawl." Mr. Barker is making the picture from an adaptation of G. B. Lancaster's novel, "The Law Bringers." In addition to Mr. Randolf, the cast includes such well-known players as Renee Adoree, Earle Williams, Barbara La Marr, Pat O'Malley, and Wallace Beery.

Rush Hughes, son of Rupert Hughes, will play a small part in Fred Nible's production, "Captain Applejack.' Mr. Hughes will play a pirate in the picture.

Morgan Wallace, who has just returned from London to play a part in Richard Barthelmess' production, "The Fighting Blade," says that American producers have nothing to fear from English competition, for several years yet, at least. According to Mr. Wallace, the English method of producing pictures is most primitive. There is no contract, and everything is done by day work. The actors get paid for the days they work, and if an actor is engaged by two companies, the producer who engages him first gets his services first. There is not much money spent in producing pictures there, and no attempt at any big sets, such as we have in this country.

Goldwyn has purchased the screen rights to Franz Lehar's comic opera, "The Merry Widow," to be made by Erich von Stroheim, who is now producing "Greed," for that company. Mr. Von Stroheim will produce "The Merry Widow on a stupendous scale, so it will rank with "The Christian" and "The Strangers Banquet."

Florence Fair, who played the lead in "Clarence,' with Alfred Lunt and Glenn Hunter, and who was the lead in the Chicago company of "The Bat" last season, makes her film debut in Dorothy Dalton's new Paramount picture, adapted from C. M. S. McLellan's play, "Leah Kleschna."

Albert Roscoe has been selected for a leading role in Clara Kimball Young's next picture, Old Madrid," by W. H. Roberts.

Harry Carey has started work on "Desert Driven," an adaptation of "The Man From the Desert," by Wyndham Martyn, which appeared in "Action Stories." Marguerite Clayton will support the start in the picture, which will be a F. B. O. release.

Bessie Love will play Pauline in Goldwyn's screen version of "The Magic Skin," from Blazac's story. Carmel Myers will play the Countess. Miss Love has just completed a part in Marshall Neilan's picture, "The Eternal Three."

Viola Dana's brother-in-law, Harold Shaw, will direct her in her new series of Metro pictures. The first will be "Roughed Lips," a story of the stage, by Rita Weiman. Mr. Shaw is the husband of Viola's sister, Edna Flugrath, and has been directing pictures in England for the past ten years.

WOMAN'S EDUCATIONAL CLUB IN MEETING.

The Nebraska Woman's Educational club met in regular session Saturday morning at the chamber of commerce. This club meets three times a year; one meeting comes in May and one in November. These are both state meetings and include the six districts.

Sometime in the year, usually in October, each district meets at some convenient place and transacts business for the district.

Miss Lulu E. Wirt of Kearney, who was elected president in January, presided at the Saturday meeting. The time was filled with reports and discussions before taking up the regular business of the day.

Miss Sadie Baird, principal of the Elliott school, responded to a request for a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Ida Johnson Lewellyn, who was called by death a few weeks ago. Miss Baird's remarks were sincere and beautiful and outlined quite clearly the character and worth of this departed member who was always seeking the best in the educational world.

Mrs. A. E. McCrystal spoke in commemoration of Miss Cora A. Thompson, who was also well and favorably known and had been a co-worker with many of those present.

Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, chairman of the legislative committee, reported in favor and against much that took place in the legislature last winter concluding with the following recommendations:

"Your committee recommends that this club and all of the teachers work unceasingly in the interests of the national education bill which will be introduced into the sixty-eighth congress. Every Nebraska teacher should be an educational crusader in behalf of this educational bill. The committee would further recommend that this club cooperate with the Nebraska State Teachers, association and other organizations interested in working for a forward looking educational legislative program for Nebraska."

The other members of this committee are Mrs Mae Morley and Mrs Bertha F. Craig, both of Lincoln.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $867.63.

Miss Jennie B. Adams read the changes proposed by the committee to the present constitution which were adopted after some discussion.

The district chairmen were ready with reports filled with enthusiastic plans for the coming year. These chairmen were all present except one and are as follows:

First district, Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, Lincoln.
Second district, Miss Elizabeth Shaffer, Omaha.
Third district, Miss Elizabeth Beetcher, Wayne.
Fourth district, Mrs. Thomas Snee, David City.
Fifth district, Miss Millicent Slaby, McCook.
Sixth district, Miss Alma Hosic, Kearney.

Forty new members were taken into the club and a long list was handed into be voted upon at the next meeting.

Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle and Miss Jennie B. Adams of Lincoln were elected delegates to the N. E. A. to be held in Oakland, California, in June. Miss Margaret Cleland and Miss Mabel Jackson were chosen alternates.

Queen Ninon is the queen of the Balkan kingdom of Jazzmania. For centuries her ancestors have ruled this little country, and she is prepared to settle down and live in the tranquil existence of her station. Her court is beset with enemies, chief among them being Prince Otto of Como, a neighboring ruler, who covets Jazzmania. However, Ninon is well guarded and none are more faithful to her than Valmar, her aid-de-camp, and Baron Bolo, her prime minister.

Sonny Daimler, son of a New York newspaper man has been sent to secure an interview with Ninon, whose personality has been reported as being quite unusual. He finds the queen taking up her latest hobby, American jazz—and her teachers are two colored gentlemen from Alabama.

Prince Otto proposes to Ninon and is rejected. After this he starts propaganda against Ninon and is successful. A revolution is imminent. Sonny urges Ninon to abdicate and go to America with him. She leaves via aeroplane under the name of Mlle Vida of Budapest, accompanied by Baron Bolo, her lady-in-waiting, and Sonny. She decides to take the wheel and in a flash the plane crashes into Suicide Gardens of the Casino at Monte Carlo. She narrowly escapes hitting Jerry Langdon, a young American, who has lost heavily. With Ninon's aid, Jerry is able to persuade his rich uncle to make him a good-sized loan.

Another visitor at the resort is Julius Furnam, an American banker on his way to Jazzmania where he hopes to obtain valuable concessions which Prince Otto has agreed to sell. Otto intends to keep the money for himself.

Finally Nion arrives in New York. Her love of novelty falls completely under the jazz wave sweeping over the country, and she gives exhibitions at her apartment to exclusive circles. Jerry is Mlle. Vida's constant escort, with Sonny still hovering about.

Ninon is too happy to have it last very long, a messenger comes from Jassmania, and tells her the condition of things as they are there. She decides to go back home, but realizes that she is head over heels in love with Jerry. She does not tell him who she is for fear he will not care for her then.

Peter Forbes ..... Walter Long
Patrick Joyce ..... Bert Woodruff
Mother Joyce ..... Aggie Herring
Captain Clark ..... Hershall Mayall

When the pasengers aboard the "Tibouron" from Porto Rico to New York, take to the life-boats after a collision with a derelict puts the vessel in imminent danger of sinking, there are three passengers left on board. They are Frank Howard, ex-navy leutenant, being brought to New York on the charge of having killed his wife, Detective Jackson, his captor, and Dorothy Fairfax, whom Howard had rescued from the ocean at the risk of his life.

Their pilotless vessel floats into the Sargasso sea, running into an Island of dead ships. In this location, unknown to commerce, is a small colony entirely cut off from civilization, dominated by a Captain Forbes. The rule of the island is that any woman landing there must be married within twenty-four hours after her arrival.

Forbes offers himself to Dorothy and only Howard has the courage to oppose the tyrant. The two men fight it out, and Howard's victory over Forbes carries with it not only Dorothy's hand, but the title of king of the island. To protect Dorothy, Howard goes through a ceremony with her that is marriage in name only.

He at once becomes a target for Forbes' reprisals, but he is saved by Dorothy, who in this hour of danger, realizes that she loves Howard. With enemies working actively against him, Howard welcomes the allegiance of Mother Joyce and Joyce, two islanders.

In their search for a means of escape they find some deserted Spanish galleons, loaded wth gold bars, and a small submarine in good-condition, and a wireless outfit. They plan their escape against the contending obstacles of pursuers, who have learned of their plans, and the almost unbreakable mass of seaweed that surrounds the island. At last it is necessary to come to the surface. But the submarine is caught and held by the seaweed, but one chance remains. Someone must be fired through the torpedo tube to cut the weeds away. Jackson volunteers to go. During the next few minutesh, Dorothy and Howard face death in each other's arms. Then suddenly with a lurch, the boat is loosened from the weeds and slowly rises to the surface of the water. There cruising about is a U. S. destroyer. The wireless message that Howard has sent has been successful.

They are safe now, but there remains for Howard an ordeal that is worse than death. He must still be tried for the murder of his wife.

In Salem, Mass., in the late forties, Jeremy Ammidon, a wealthy retired sea-captain, lives with his children and grand children in his home known as "Java Head," named for a high rock on the coast of Java.

Jeremy has two sons, William and Gerrit. William is manager of the family's shipping business, while Gerrit is skipper of the Nautilus then in the oriental trade. Gerrit loves Nettie Vollar, grand-daughter of old Barzil Dunsack, an old seaman. Jeremy and Barzil are old-time enemies, and the latter orders Gerrit out of his house and directs Nettie to forget her sweetheart.

In China Gerrit rescues from ruffians, Taou Yuen, daughter of a powerful Manchu noble, who, on learning that his child has been touched by a white man orders them to marry, failing to do so, the girl will be slain. The wedding follows, and Gerrit brings the girl to Salem, where her appearance creates amazement in the whole town as well as in the Ammidon family, when they learn the truth. Nettie is heartbroken at the news of the strange marriage, and becomes desperately ill.

Edward Dunsack, a drug addict, views Taou Yuen with intense longing. He lies to her about Gerrit, and poisons her mind against him but without success. At a Hallowe'en party, Nettie sees Taou Yuen, and Nettie is embarrassed when she is suddenly unmasked. Gerrit takes her home, but there is no love talk between them. Edward tells Taou Yuen that Gerrit is madly in love with Nettie, and at this she orders him from the house. Nettie, ill and abed, as the result of a runaway accident, rejoices to hear an avowal of love from Gerrit. Taou Yuen comes to visit Nettie at her bedside, and then comes the supreme climax. It is one you could never imagine, and one that you will talk about for weeks after.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Madame: Saw Richard Dix in "The Christian" and "Racing Hearts." I think he is a very good actor. Will you please give his age if he is married and to whom. Also what the title of his next picture is. Hoping to see my answer in the Lincoln Sunday Star for next Sunday May 6th. Thanking you for this. Sincerely MRS. E. M. L.

I was sorry that I was unable to get your letter in the Sunday you expected it. Hope today is not too late. Mr. Dix was born twenty-eight years ago and is single at the present writing. You will see him next with Betty Compson in "The Woman with Four Faces."

Dear Movie Editer—I am writing to you again for some more information. Will you please tell me all you know about Johnnie Walker, Ramon Navarro, and Robert Agnew. Where was Ramon Novarro born? Thanking you in advance, I am A MOVIE FAN.

Johnnie Walker made his film debut with Selznick in "Greater Than Fame." He then played with Fox in "Over the Hill" and "Fantomas," and made quite a "hit" in both pictures. He was born in 1896 with brown hair and eyes.

Ramon Novarro started his career with a handicap—the name of Samanegas. Nobody could pronounce it—nor could they remember it, so Rex Ingram, the man who gave Rodolph Valentino his start, re-christened Mr. Samanegas, to Ramon Novarro. Ramon is only twenty-three, and he was born in Durango, Mexico with dark hair and eyes. He played the Italian doctor in "Enter Madame," and then he met Rex Ingram, who gave him the role in "Rupert of Hentzau," which added to his fame. He played the leading male role opposite Alice Terry in "The End of the Pavement."

Bobby Agnew was born in Dayton, Ky., only twenty-four years ago. He was educated at San Antonio, Texas, and began his screen career with Vitagraph in "The Sporting Duchess." He's a half an inch under five feet nine in height, and has dark hair and dark blue eyes. During the last year Bobby has been gradually coming to the front, and he bids fair to become one of the leading stars of the future.

Dear Movie Editor—I am a new correspondent, but hope to stay in the ranks. Could you please tell me the age of Jackie Coogan? Also of Baby Peggy? Did Marion Davies bob her hair for "Little Old New York"? What is her address? If you have a picture of her kindly send it to me, and also one of Bebe Daniels and Alice Terry. Thanking you in advance, I am Your New Friend, EVA LOUISE.

I hope you received the picture I sent. It was the only one of the three you askd for that I had. Jackie Coogan was born in 1915. Baby Peggy is four. Marion's press agent says: "Quite unwittingly Marion Davies has started a new fashion in feminine hair-cuts. For her next picture, "Little Old New York, Miss Daves had her hair cut in a short straight bob, the better to impersonate a boy. Now New York girls are taking up the fad quite seriously. Address Marion in care of the Cosmopolitan Productions, Second Ave. at 127th St., New York City.

Dear Movie Editor—Can you tell me all the data on "Red Lights" and "Captain Fly-By-Night?" I went to the Colonial last week and I liked the picture very much. Please tell me all about the one who played the young son. I think he's left Valentino in the dust for looks, and he can act, too. Yojrs truly, RUBY.

Just what data did you want on the pictures? "Red Lights" is a Goldwyn picture, directed by Clarence Badger. The cast consists of a list of celebrities, which include Charles Murphy, Marie Prevost, Raymond Griffin, Johnnie Walker, Alice Lake, Dagmar Godowsky, Lionel Belmore, William Worthington, Jean Hersholt and Frank Elliot. The picture is a film adaption of the stage play, "The Rear Car."

"Captain Fly-By-Night" featured Johnnie Walker. It was released through F. B. O. and directed by William K. Howard. The cast was: First Stranger, Johnnie Walker; Second Stranger, Francis McDonald; Anita, Shannon Day; Cassara, Edward Gribben; Senora, Victory Bateman; Padre Michael, James McEldern; Indian, Charles Stevens; Governor, Bert Wheeler; Gomez, Fred Kelsey.

Johnnie Walker was "Johnnie McDowell," in "The Third Alarm" which must have been the picture you attended at the Colonial. He is considered one of the rising young players in filmdom. You will find a detailed description of the young gentleman in a letter above.

Dear Movie Editor—I received your pictures anr was very much pleased with them. Will you please tell me the height, weight, age and addresses of Marion Davies, Blanche Sweet, Pauline Garon and Gloria Swanson?

What is the color of Betty Compson's hair? Also what is the weight of Babe London? Thank you for yur trouble. GRACE MARIE.

I'm delighted because you were pleased with your pictures. Sorry I haven't those you wish this time. Marion Davies is five feet four and a half inches tall and weighs 123. She has golden hair and blue eyes, and is twenty-four years old. Address her in care of Cosmopolitan Productions, New York City.

Blanche Sweet is also a blond. She was born in 1893. She is five feet five inches tall and weighs 130. Address her now in care of Goldwyn at Culver City, Cal.

Pauline Garon is slim, blond and twenty. She's five feet one and weighs a trifle over a hundred. Address her at the Famous Players-Lasky studio, Hollywood, Cal.

Gloria Swanson could be reached also, at the Lasky Studio. Gloria was born in 1893 with dark brown hair and blue eyes. She is five feet three inches tall and weighs 112.

Betty Compson has a reddish brown hair. Babe London is some baby. She weighs 195.

Creighton Hale will play William H. Xrane as the young man in "Three Wise Fools," the Goldwyn picture, which is now being "shot" by King Vidor.

"Judgment of the Storm," the first Palmer Photoplay Corporation screen production, has been cut from thirty-three reels to fifteen reels. This is just the first "rough cut." The film will be reduced to about six reels, before it is ready for release.

CADET INSPECTION SET FOR MONDAY

Good Showing Will Bring Federal Recognition to State University.

Regular Army Men Reviewing Many Schools to Choose "Distinguished" Colleges.

The University of Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit will be inspected by representatives of the war department May 14 and 15 to determine whether or not it will be one of the twenty-five "distinguished colleges" of the 129 senior R. O. T. C. units at state universities and similar institutions. The inspectors will examine the theoretical instruction, the equipment, and the cadets in action. The cadets will be inspected and pass in review Monday afternoon.

Certain colleges are designated by the war department as "distinguished colleges" following an inspection on the following phases: Indoor and outdoor facilities for training and instruction; support of the R. O. T. C. by the institution; support of the R. O. T. C. by the student body; efficiency of the theoretical instruction; and the efficiency of the practical instruction and training. Not to exceed 20 per cent of the colleges are granted this honor. The quota is full at the present time, so Nebraska, in order to gain the honor, will have to displace some other college.

If Nebraska is awarded this honor, 5 per cent of the Nebraska seniors in the military department may be designated as "honor graduates" and be eligible for appointment as second lieutenants in the regular army without examination. The cadets will be privileged to wear gold stars on their sleeves, and the university will be listed as a "distinguished college" in the war department publications.

The University of Missouri is the only institution in the Seventh corps area that has been so designated by the war department. It has held this honor three years. The University of Minnesota held the honor in 1921 but lost it.

The inspectors are Major Henry T. Bull, of the office of the chief of cavalry, and Major Ralph W. Kingman of the office of the chief of infantry, in charge of supplies.

John Zimmer Finds "The "Lost Soul"

Mr. Zimmer says that he thinks a year spent in some other country does you good. It brings into contrast the progress, the system and everything else. There is no country like the United States, and he is always glad to get back to it again.

Zimmer a Nebraska Grad.

Mr. Zimmer graduated from the University of Nebraska in the year 1910. He spent four years in the Philippines, visited Japan, Java, and worked in Australia and New Guinea for three or four years.

"I will probably be in the states for a year at least," said Mr Zimmer, and then I will go away again I began some experiments in South America that I would like to go back and finish during a dry season some time If I do not go next time, it will be at some future date."

Mr Zimmer will leave in a few weeks for Chicago, and will take him Mrs. Zimmer and the small son and daughter, who will make their home there
